

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE TO THIRD EDITION.

A THIRD Edition of this small work having been called for, the Compiler has gone carefully through it, and, after considering a number of recent cases, has only deemed it advisable, bearing in mind the original intent, to add one, viz. that of Currie v. Misa. He has also in a few places made some alterations and additions to the notes, and trusts the book will continue to meet with that approbation it has hitherto received.

PREFACE TO SECOND EDITION.

IN preparing this Edition the Compiler, acting on the experience gained in reading with his own pupils of what would prove useful to them, and also acting on suggestions made to him, has in various places considerably enlarged the notes to the cases, though still keeping strictly to his original intent of making them very concise. He has only considered it advisable to add one principal case viz., that of Lumley v. Gye, on damages, and he has entirely re-written the note on this important subject, endeavouring in it to give some of the most important rules from Mr. Mayne's valuable Treatise on Damages, which he trusts will be found useful. Acting also on suggestions made to him that it would make this little work more acceptable, particularly to non-students, he has in every case added the reference to the original reports in addition to 'Smith's

Leading Cases;' and for the particular use of students blank spaces are left for the purpose of making MS. notes and additions.

THE Compiler of this small volume, while reading for his Final Examination, devoted some time to the study of Leading Cases, and it long ago occurred to him that—many articulated clerks not having sufficient time to fully peruse the large volumes of ‘Leading Cases’—a short Epitome, giving those decisions most important to be read and remembered, would be very useful to them. Besides this, he has long thought that an Epitome might be equally, if not more, useful, to those who attentively read the large volumes, for they can, after having done so, speedily run through a small manual like the present and impress the chief decisions on their memories. This Epitome professes to nothing particularly original, for it is indeed but an abridgement of the chief decisions in ‘Smith’s Leading Cases,’ with some few additional ones, and some short notes bearing directly on the different decisions. The facts of the different cases are given when they could be shortly stated, and when they seemed to be of a character likely to serve to impress the decision on the student's memory.

It is sincerely hoped that this Epitome will be found useful for the purpose for which it is intended, viz., as a help to the reading of 'Smith's Leading Cases.'

AN EPITOME
OF
LEADING COMMON LAW CASES, INTENDED AS
A Guide to "Smith's Leading Cases."

---

TWYNNE'S CASE.

(3 Coke, 80.)

INFORMATION against Twynne, for making and publishing a fraudulent gift of goods. Pierce was indebted to Twynne in £400, and to C. in £200. Pending an action by C. against Pierce, Pierce, being possessed of goods to the value of £300, by deed of gift conveyed them to Twynne in satisfaction of his debt, but Pierce continued in possession of the goods. C. obtained judgment against Pierce, and issued a fi. fa., and Twynne resisted execution.

Resolved:—That the gift was fraudulent within 13 Eliz. c. 5, on the following grounds:—

1. The gift was perfectly general.
2. The donor continued in possession.
3. It was made in secret.
4. It was made pending the writ.

2 AN EPITOME OF LEADING COMMON LAW CASES.

5. There was a trust between the parties, and fraud is always clothed with a trust.

6. The deed contained that the gift was honestly and truly made, which was an inconsistent clause.

Notes.—The rule under the statute of 13 Eliz. c. 5, is that all gifts and conveyances of either chattels or of land made for the purpose of defeating or delaying creditors are void against them unless made upon a valuable consideration and bonâ fide to some person without notice of the fraud, and it should be observed that this rule applies not only to creditors to whom the person is indebted at the time, but also immediately afterwards to such an extent that he has not sufficient exclusive of the property so disposed of to pay such debts. Of course, although a conveyance may be fraudulent under the statute, yet as between the parties themselves it is good. The above case was not decided on the ground that there was no consideration, for the debt was a sufficient consideration, but on the ground that it was not bonâ fide. A debtor has a right to prefer one creditor to another, but he must do so openly, for the law will not allow a creditor to make use of his demand to shelter the debtor, and while he leaves him in statu quo by forbearing to enforce the assignment, to defeat the other creditors by insisting on it. It may be observed that the enactments contained in 13 Eliz. c. 5, are simply declaratory of the Common Law.

In questions as to voluntary conveyances there are three statutes upon which the answer may depend, firstly, the above statute, by which the voluntary conveyance may be bad as being fraudulent; secondly, the 27 Eliz. c. 4, by which all voluntary conveyances of land are void against subsequent purchasers for value; and thirdly, the Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71) s. 91, by which a voluntary settlement made by a trader is void if he becomes bankrupt within two years, and if he becomes bankrupt after that time, but within ten years, also void, unless the parties claiming under such settlement can prove that the settlor was at the time of making it able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property comprised in such settlement.

DUMFOR'S CASE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 30.)

(4 Coke, 119.)

Decided:—That where there is a covenant not to alien without license, and that license is once given, the license applies to all future acts of a like nature, so that no alienation afterwards, though without license, is a breach of the covenant.

Notes.—The following was the practical working of the extraordinary doctrine laid down in this case:—A. makes a lease to B., who covenants not to assign without the license of A. A. grants a license to B. to assign to C., and afterwards, notwithstanding the covenant, the term can be assigned to any one. The ground of the doctrine was that every condition of re-entry is entire and indivisible, and the condition, having been waived once, could not be enforced again. Recent legislation has altered this doctrine, it being enacted by 22 & 23 Vict. c. 35, s. 1, that every such license shall, unless otherwise expressed, extend only to the permission actually given, or the actual matter thereby specifically authorized to be done, unless otherwise specified. The subject of an actual waiver of a covenant may here be noticed, for which the above enactment did not provide. An actual waiver of a breach of a covenant destroyed the condition of re-entry; but 23 & 24 Vict. c. 38, s. 6, enacts that any actual waiver of a breach of covenant taking place after the passing of that Act (23rd July, 1860), shall not be deemed to extend to any breach of covenant or condition other than that to which such waiver shall specially relate, nor to be a general waiver of the benefit of any such covenant or condition, unless an intention to that effect shall appear.

SPENCER'S CASE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 45.)

(5 Coke, 16.)

This was an action of covenant by the lessors of certain property against the assignees thereof, for not building a wall upon the property as the original lessee had covenanted to do. The principal discussion in the case was as to what covenants would run with the land, and the following were the chief points decided :

1. That where the covenant extends to a thing in esse parcel of the demise, the covenant is appurtenant to the thing demised, and binds the assignee without express words, as if the lessee covenants to repair the house demised to him, during the term ; but not so, if the thing is not in being at the time of the demise.

2. That where the lessee covenants for himself "and his assigns," to do some act upon the thing demised, though not in existence at the time of the demise, there, forasmuch as it is to be done upon the land demised, that binds the assignee.

3. But even though the lessee covenant for himself "and his assigns," yet if the thing to be done be merely collateral to the land, and does not in any way touch or concern the thing demised, there the assignee cannot be charged.

Notes.—This case shews the nature of the covenants which will run with the land, by which is meant those covenants as to which either the liability to perform them, or the right to take advantage of them, passes to the assignee of the land. The better opinion is that at common law covenants ran with the land, but not with the reversion, which rule proceeded upon the doctrine that though an estate could be assigned a contract could not; so that, for instance, if a lessee covenanted to keep his house in repair, and the lessor then sold, he could not assign the benefit of the covenant, so that on breach of covenant by tenant the new landlord could not bring an action in his own name, but all he could do would be to obtain permission from the original lessor to bring it in his name. Of course this is no longer so, for the statute of 32 Hen. 8, c. 34, whilst confirming the common law, that the benefit of covenants relating to the land entered into by the lessor will pass to the assignee, alters the common law by enabling the assignee of the reversion to take advantage of the covenants entered into by the lessee with the lessor from whom such assignee claims.

The reason of the passing of the statute of 32 Hen. 8, c. 34, was that at the time of the Reformation, when a large part of the Church lands fell into lay hands, the inconvenience of the law attracted notice, for it pressed hardly on the grantees from the Crown of the lands of the dissolved monasteries, and whilst the enactment was specially created for their benefit it was also made to apply to the whole public. (Elphinstone's Conveyancing, pp. 228, 231.)

As to covenants running with the land in other cases than those between landlord and tenant. Those made with the owner of the land to which they relate may be taken advantage of by each successive transferee of the land to which they relate, provided he be in of the same estate as the original covenantee was; but as to those entered into by the owner of the land to which they relate, it seems they do not run with the land, but bind only the original covenantor, for if they bound transferees, they would frequently find themselves liable on contracts of which they were ignorant, and which would, if they had known of them, have deterred them from purchasing.

SEMAYNE'S CASE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 88.)

(5 Coke, 91.)

The following were the most important points resolved in this case:—

1. It is not lawful for the sheriff at the suit of a common person, to break the defendant's house to execute process, but if a defendant flies to or removes his goods to another man's house, the privilege does not extend to protect him there, and, after denial on request made, the sheriff may break the house.

2. In all cases where the king is party the sheriff may break the defendant's house, after request to open the doors.

3. Where a house is recovered in a real action, the sheriff may break the house to deliver possession.

Notes.—It must be remembered that although the sheriff is justified in entering a third party's house to execute process of the law upon defendant or his property, yet if it happen that defendant be not there, or have no property there, the sheriff is a trespasser. When the sheriff has once obtained entry he can break open the inner doors, and where a defendant after arrest escapes, the sheriff may break his house, or the house of any person to which he escapes, to retake him.

It may be useful to state here the law as to arrest and imprisonment under "The Debtors Act, 1869," 32 & 33 Vict. c. 62. The effect of this statute is to abolish imprisonment for debt except in the following six cases:—

1. Default in payment of a penalty not arising out of contract.
2. Default in payment of sums recoverable summarily before a justice.

3. Default by trustees, &c., in paying sums as ordered by the Court of Chancery.

4. Default in payment by attorneys or solicitors of sums ordered to be paid by them as such.

5. Default in payment of a sum ordered to be set aside by a debtor by the Court of Bankruptcy out of salary or income for payment of creditors.

6. Default in payment of sums in respect of which orders are authorized to be made by the Act.

These cases are therefore absolutely excepted, but it is provided that no person shall be imprisoned in any such excepted case for any longer period than one year.

In addition to these exceptions sect. 5 gives any Court power to commit to prison for a period not exceeding six weeks where default is made in payment of a debt due under any order or judgment, provided it is proved that the debtor has or has had since the date of the order means to pay. This power is to be exercised in the inferior Courts only by a judge or his deputy by an order made in open Court, shewing on its face the ground on which it is issued; and as to a judgment of a superior Court, only where the judgment does not exceed £50 exclusive of costs. This imprisonment is to be no satisfaction of the debt, and it may be mentioned that under the power here given the judges have required very strict proof of the debtor's means.

As to arrest, sect. 6 provides that in any action in the superior Courts of law where defendant would have been liable to arrest formerly he may be arrested for a period not exceeding six months, unless or until he has given prescribed security not to leave England without leave of the Court, where the plaintiff, at any time before final judgment proves (1) good cause of action for £50 or upwards; (2) probable cause for believing that defendant is about to quit England; and (3), that his absence will materially prejudice plaintiff in prosecution of action; except as to this last proof, where the action is for a penalty other than a penalty in respect of any contract, when it is not necessary, and the proof of the other two facts alone is sufficient.

CALYE'S CASE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 105.)
(8 Coke, 32.)

Resolved:—That if a man comes to a common inn, and delivers his horse to the hostler, and requires him to put him to pasture, which is done, and the horse is stolen, the innkeeper shall not answer for it. To charge an innkeeper on the custom or common law of the realm for the loss of goods:—(1) The inn ought to be a common inn. (2) The party ought to be a traveller or passenger. (3) The goods must be in the inn (and for this reason the innkeeper is not bound to answer for a horse put out to pasture). (4) There must be a default on the part of the innkeeper or his servants in the safe keeping of the guest's goods. (5) The loss must be to moveables, and therefore if a guest be beaten at an inn, the innkeeper shall not answer for it.

Notes.—An inn is defined as “a house where the traveller is furnished with everything he has occasion for on his way.” An innkeeper is defined as “one who professes to supply lodgings and provisions for the night, for all comers who are ready to pay for it,” and he is bound to receive a traveller into his house and provide properly for him upon his tendering a reasonable price for the same, unless, indeed, the traveller is drunk or suffers from a contagious disorder. If innkeeper fails in his duty he may be indicted at common law, or is liable to an action on the case (Fell v. Knight, 10 L. J. (Ex.) 277). A person who professes to let private lodgings only, or to supply provisions only, is not an innkeeper; and if a man come to an inn on a special contract to board and lodge there, the law does not consider him as a guest but as a boarder. At common law an innkeeper was liable for all losses, unless they arose through the act of God, the king's enemies, or the fault of the guest or his servant, but now by 26 & 27 Vict. c. 41, an innkeeper is not liable to make good any loss of, or injury to goods (not being a horse or other live animal, or gear appertaining thereto, or any carriage), beyond £30, except (1) Where stolen, lost, or injured, through the wilful neglect or default of the innkeeper, or any servant in his employ; or (2) Where the goods are deposited expressly with him for safe custody; but to entitle the innkeeper to the benefit of the Act a copy of section 1 must be exhibited in a conspicuous part of the hall or entrance to inn.

An innkeeper, if his bill is not paid, though he cannot detain his guest's person, has a lien on, and may detain goods intrusted to his charge, though they are not the guest's property.

THE SIX CARPENTERS' CASE.

(S. L. C., Vol. 1., p. 132.)

(8 Coke, 146 a.)

Here six carpenters entered a tavern and were served with wine for which they paid; they were afterwards, at their request, served with bread and more wine, for which they then refused to pay. Trespass was on these facts brought against the six carpenters, and the only point in the case was whether the non-payment made the entry into the tavern tortious. It was resolved: (1) That if a man abuse an authority given him by the law, he becomes a trespasser ab initio; but (2) Where the authority is given by the party and abused, there he is not a trespasser ab initio, but he must be punished for his abuse. (3) That non-feasance only cannot make the party who has the license by law a trespasser ab initio, and therefore in this case the mere non-payment did not make the carpenters trespassers ab initio.

Notes.—The rule laid down in this case that a man abusing an authority given him by the law becomes a trespasser ab initio formerly applied to a distress, but now if any irregularity occurs in making a distress, if any rent is justly due, the distrainer is not a trespasser ab initio (11 Geo. 2, c. 19, s. 19).

LAMPLEIGH v. BRAITHWAITE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 139.)

(Hobart, 105.)

Decided :—That a mere voluntary courtesy will not uphold assumpsit, for to do so, it must be moved by a precedent request of the party who gives the promise, for then the promise though it follows, yet is not alone, but couples itself with the request. Labour, though unsuccessful, may form a valuable consideration.

Notes.—The rule requiring a consideration to support a promise, is, of course, well known, and needs no comment here; but it will be useful to note here that a consideration consists of either: “some benefit to the party making the promise, or to a third person by the act of the promisee, or some loss, trouble, inconvenience to, or charge imposed upon, the party to whom the promise is made.”

Considerations which, with reference to their nature, are divided into good and valuable, are also, with reference to time, denoted, executed, executory, contemporaneous, and continuing. An executed consideration will not support an action unless founded upon a previous request express or implied, and this previous request will be implied in the following cases :—

1. Where plaintiff has been compelled to do that which defendant ought to have done and was compellable to do.

2. Where defendant has taken the benefit of the consideration.

3. Where plaintiff has voluntarily done that which defendant was legally compellable to do, and in consideration thereof the latter has afterwards expressly promised to repay or to indemnify him; or, where the act is done voluntarily, but it is of such a nature as to be essential to the public welfare.

12 AN EPITOME OF LEADING COMMON LAW CASES.

4. Where plaintiff has expended money in procuring necessities for an infant who, on coming of age, expressly promises a sum of money in consideration thereof.

5. Cases of money lent.

6. Where a person, at the request of another, subjects himself to a legal liability to pay money, the law implies a request to the former by the latter actually to pay the money when necessary. (Smith's C. L. Manual, 4th ed., pp. 50. 52.)

Of the above cases the first three are the most important to be borne in mind.

CHANDELOR v. LOPUS.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 165.)
(2 Coke, 2.)

The defendant sold to the plaintiff a stone, which he affirmed to be a Bezoar stone, but which proved not to be so. This action was brought upon the case, and on error being brought, it was held that no action lay against defendant, unless he either knew that it was not a Bezoar stone, or warranted it to be a Bezoar stone.

---

PASLEY v. FREEMAN.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 71.)
(3 T. R. 51.)

Decided:—That a false affirmation made by the defendant with intent to defraud the plaintiff, whereby the plaintiff receives damage, is the ground of an action upon the case in the nature of deceit. In such an action, it is, not necessary that the defendant should be benefited by the deceit, or that he should collude with the person who is.

Notes on the two foregoing cases.—These two cases are placed together as being slightly connected; but although this is so, the differences between them are obvious, for the case of Chandelor v. Lopus touches as well on the point of warranty, whilst Pasley v. Freeman only deals with the nature of the false affirmation that will support an action of deceit. A warranty may be defined as an undertaking, express or implied, arising or given on the sale of goods or chattels. On the question of what amounts to a warranty, it may here be noticed that "every affirmation at the time of sale of personal chattels is a warranty, provided it appears to have been so intended." A warranty which is made subsequent to a sale is invalid for want of consideration, unless indeed made upon some fresh consideration. As to the remedy of the vendee of a chattel on breach of warranty, he cannot return it and recover the price if it is some specific article sold, though he may if the warranty is in respect of manufactured goods never completely accepted, and provided he has only given the article a fair trial. In all cases the vendee can give the breach in evidence in reduction of the vendor's claim, or may bring an action against him for the breach.

The decision in the case of Pasley v. Freeman is subject to the enactment contained in 9 Geo. 4, c. 14, s. 6: "that no action shall be maintained whereby to charge any person upon, or by reason of, any representation or assurance made or given concerning or relating to the character, conduct, credit, ability, trade, or dealings of any other person, to the intent or purpose that such other person may obtain 'credit, money, or goods upon,' unless such representation or assurance be made in writing signed by the party to be charged therewith."

COGGS v. BERNARD.

(Lord Raymond, 909.)

Here the defendant had promised the plaintiff to take up several hogsheads of brandy then in a certain cellar, and lay them down again in a certain other cellar, safely and securely; and by the default of the defendant one of the casks was staved and a quantity of brandy spilt. Verdict for plaintiff on a plea of not guilty, and on motion in arrest of judgment, Decided:—That if a man undertake to carry goods safely and securely, he is responsible for any damage they may sustain in the carriage through his neglect, though he was not a common carrier, and was to have nothing for his pains. Lord Holt here classifies bailments as follows:—(1) Depositum, or a naked bailment of goods to be kept for the use of the bailor. (2) Commodatum, where goods are lent to the bailee gratis to be used by him. (3) Locatio rei, where goods are lent to the bailee for hire. (4) Vadium, pawn. (5) Locatio operis faciendi, where goods are delivered to be carried, or something is to be done about them, for a reward to be paid to the bailee. (6) Man datum, a delivery of goods to somebody who is to carry them or do something about them gratis.

WILSON v. BRETT.

(11 M. & W. 113.)

Decided :—That a party who rides a horse, at the request of the owner, for the purpose of exhibiting and offering him for sale, without any benefit to himself, is bound to use such skill as he possesses; and if proved to be conversant with and skilled in horses, he is equally liable with a borrower for an injury done to the horse, for he is bound to use the skill which he possesses.

Notes on the above two Cases.—These two cases are quoted together, the first as being the leading case on the subject, and shewing the general principle that a gratuitous bailee is chargeable only when guilty of gross negligence, and the latter as somewhat altering that general principle, by deciding that if the gratuitous bailee is in such a situation as to imply skill in what he undertakes to do, an omission to use that skill is imputable to him as gross negligence.

In considering the subject of bailments, we come to that of carriers. A common carrier has been defined as “a person who undertakes to transport from place to place for hire the goods of such persons as think fit to employ him.” At the common law carriers were insurers liable for all losses, except those arising from the act of God, or of the King’s enemies; and to obviate this liability it became their practice to put up in their warehouses notices limiting their liability, and provided it could be shewn that the customer saw such notice, this was usually held to create a contract between the carrier and the customer. Statute 1 Wm. 4, c. 68, provided that carriers shall not be liable for certain valuable articles therein specified, such as gold, silver, pictures, &c., above £10, unless the nature and value of the article were declared, and an increased rate of charge paid or agreed to be paid; and that the carrier may demand and receive an increased rate to be duly notified in his warehouse. No general notices or conditions are to limit the carrier's liability. But nothing in the Act contained is to prevent a special contract. This statute does not protect the carrier from any loss arising from the felonious act of any servant in his employ. After this Act railway companies frequently escaped its provisions by putting notices on the receipts given to persons sending goods, and this was held to constitute a special contract between the parties: 17 & 18 Vict. c. 31, therefore, provides that no such contract shall be of effect unless signed by the party delivering the goods; but the company may limit its liability by reasonable conditions—the reasonableness of such conditions to be decided by the judge before whom the matter comes. This Act also exempts companies from liability for loss of (1) horses beyond the sum of £50, (2) neat cattle £15, (3) sheep and pigs £2 per head, unless a higher value declared, and an increased rate paid or agreed to be paid.

A common carrier is bound to carry all goods delivered to him for carriage provided the price be paid or tendered, and they are of the nature he ordinarily carries, and they are not dangerous, and he has room in his vehicle. If a person delivers dangerous goods to a carrier without informing him of their dangerous nature, he will be liable for any accident arising from them to the carrier, or those who are concerned in the carriage (Farrant v. Barnes, 11 C. B. (N.S) 553).

ASHBY v. WHITE.

(Lord Raymond, 938.)

At an election of burgesses for Parliament, the plaintiff, being entitled to vote, tendered his vote for two candidates; but such vote was refused, and notwithstanding those candidates for whom the plaintiff tendered his vote were elected, yet he brought this action against the constables of the borough for refusing to admit his vote. Decided:—That action was maintainable, for it was an injury, though without any special damage.

Notes.—The above case decides, that although a person has suffered no actual or real damage, yet if he has suffered a legal wrong or injury, capable in legal contemplation of being estimated by a jury, an action lies; but the decision in this case must be carefully distinguished from those cases in which a damage is incurred by the plaintiff, but a damage not occasioned by anything which the law considers an injury. In such cases the party damaged is said to suffer damnum sine injuria, and can maintain no action. See, in further exemplification of the above decision and these remarks, the important cases of Fray v. Voules (1 E. & E. 839), and Marzetti v. Williams (1 B. & Ad. 415), and Mayne's Treatise on Damages (2nd Ed., pp. 415, 416).

BIRKMYR v. DARNELL.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 274.)

(Salkeld, 27.)

Decides:—That a promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person, for which that other remains liable, is within the statute, but not if that other does not remain liable.

PETER v. COMPTON.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 296.)

(Skinner, 353.)

This was an action upon an agreement of the defendant, in consideration of one guinea paid him, to give the plaintiff so many on the day of his marriage. The marriage did not happen within a year, and the question was, whether or not the agreement must be in writing. Decided:—That “an agreement which is not to be performed within one year from the making thereof” means, in the Statute of Frauds, an agreement which, from its terms, is incapable of being performed within the year; and therefore the agreement in this case need not be in writing.

Notes on these two Cases.—The following is the 4th section of the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3):—“No action shall be brought whereby to charge any executor or administrator upon any special promise to answer damages out of his own estate, or whereby to charge the defendant upon any special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person, or to charge any person upon any agreement made upon consideration of marriage, or upon any contract or sale of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any interest in or concerning them, or upon any agreement which is not to be performed within one year from the making thereof, unless the agreement upon which such action shall be brought, or some memorandum or note thereof, shall be in writing, and signed by the party to be charged therewith, or some other person thereunto by him lawfully authorized."

The above two cases are therefore on two of the agreements mentioned in the section, viz. guarantees and agreements not to be performed within a year. The case of Birkmyr v. Darnell is on the point of guarantee, deciding that if the original party remains liable, then the agreement is within the statute, and must be in writing; but if the original party does not, in fact, remain liable, then it is entirely a fresh agreement, and not within the statute; and a guarantee is therefore properly defined as a collateral promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another for which that other remains primarily liable. 19 & 20 Vict. c. 97, s. 3, provides that the consideration for a guarantee need not appear on the face of the written instrument (see post, p. 54); and the same statute (sect. 4) provides that a guarantee to or for a firm shall cease upon a change in the firm, unless the intention of the parties that it shall continue notwithstanding such change shall appear. The same statute also (by sect. 5) provides that a surety who discharges the liability of his principal is to be entitled to an assignment of all securities held by creditor, although they may be deemed at law to be satisfied by his payment.

The latter case of Peter v. Compton needs no remark, it well explaining what is meant by an agreement not to be performed within one year from the making thereof, shewing that where on the face of the agreement it is capable of being performed within the year, then it is not within the statute, and need not be in writing: though where, from its very terms, it is incapable of being so performed, then it must be in writing.

PRICE v. EARL OF TORRINGTON.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 290.)

(Salkeld, 285.)

This was an action for beer sold and delivered, and the evidence given to charge defendant was, that the drayman, in the usual course of business, and in discharge of his duty, had made a note of the delivery of the beer, and set his hand thereto, and that he had since died. Decided:—That this was good evidence of a delivery.

---

HIGHAM v. RIDGWAY.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 287.)

(1 East, 109.)

In this case it was necessary to prove the precise date of the birth of one William Fowden, and to prove this, an entry made by a man-midwife (since dead), who had delivered the mother, of his having done so on a certain day, referring to his ledger, in which he had made a charge for his attendance, which was marked as paid, was tendered. Decided:—That this was good evidence.

Notes on these two Cases.—These two cases are here placed together because they are both on the subject of evidence, and because they are sometimes confused by students. The grounds of the decisions are, however, quite distinct; that of Price v. Earl of Torrington being, that the entry was made in the ordinary course of business, and in the performance of duty: and here it must be observed, that in this class of cases only so much of the entry as it was strictly the duty of the party to make can be received. But the ground of the decision in Higham v. Ridgway was, that the entry was against the interest of the party who had made it, and in this class of cases the other facts stated in the entry, though not against the interest of the party making the entry, can be received. Had this not been so, the entry given in evidence in Higham v. Ridgway would have been inadmissible. The distinction between these two classes of cases is most important and should be well observed.

Other cases in which the statements of persons not upon oath are admissible in evidence are, that in respect of matters of public and general interest, declarations of deceased persons who may be presumed to have had competent knowledge on the subject, are admitted if made before any controversy arose; also matters of pedigree may be proved by declarations of deceased persons connected by blood or marriage with the family, if made before any controversy arose, or by the general reputation of a family. Also see 32 & 33 Vict. c. 68, s. 4 (post, p. 30).

CUMBER v. WANE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 301.)

(1 Strange, 436.)

Decided:—That giving a note for £5 cannot be pleaded in satisfaction of £15.

Notes.—This means that a smaller sum cannot be given in satisfaction of a greater, though something else might so operate; thus a horse might be given in satisfaction of a debt of £15, though it was not worth even £5. It should be here observed that in this case it does not appear that the note was a negotiable note, and it has since been decided that a negotiable security may operate, if so given and taken, in satisfaction of a debt of greater amount (Sibree v. Tripp, 15 M. & W. 23).

ARMORY v. DELAMIRIE.(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 315.)(1 Strange, 504.)*

The plaintiff, being a chimney-sweeper's boy, found a jewel, and carried it to the shop of the defendant, who was a goldsmith, to know what it was. He delivered it to an apprentice, who took out the stone, and the master offered him three-halfpence for it. The plaintiff refused to take it, and insisted on having it returned, whereupon the apprentice delivered him back the socket without the stone; and so the plaintiff now brought an action of trover against the master. Decided:—(1) The finder of a jewel may maintain trover for conversion thereof against the wrongdoer, for he has a good title against all but the right owner. (2) A master is liable for a loss of his customer's property intrusted to his servant in the course of his business. (3) When a person, who has wrongfully converted property, will not produce it, it shall be presumed as against him to be of the best description.

Notes.—The chief and important decision in the above case is that numbered (1), shewing that a finder of property has a good title against all except the rightful owner. The evidence to be adduced on the trial of an action of trover is (a) that the plaintiff was in possession of the goods, or had a right of property with the right to immediate possession, (b) that the goods came to defendant's possession, (c) that he or his agent converted them, and (d) their value.

COLLINS v. BLANTERN.(S. L. C. Vol. I., p. 325.)(2 Wilson, 341.)*

In this case the plaintiff sued on a bond executed by certain parties, of whom the defendant was one, the obligation of which was £700 conditioned for payment of £350. The defendant pleaded the following facts, which shewed that the consideration though not appearing on the face of the bond was illegal: Certain parties were prosecuted for perjury by one John Rudge, and pleaded not guilty. According to an arrangement the plaintiff gave his promissory note to the prosecutor, John Rudge, he to forbear further prosecuting, and as part of the arrangement the bond on which plaintiff sued was executed to indemnify him. The question was whether such a plea was good. Decided:—That the plea was good, for illegality may be pleaded as a defence to an action on a bond.

Notes.—It will be observed that the instrument was one under seal, and that the case decides that though so under seal, and notwithstanding the rule that a contract under seal is binding on the party making it, whether there is a consideration or not, the defendant was not estopped from setting up the illegality.

(As to estoppel, see post, p. 72.)

MITCHELL v. REYNOLDS.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 356.)

(1 P. Wms. 181.)

Here the defendant had assigned to the plaintiff a bake-house, and had executed a bond not to carry on the trade of a baker within the parish for a period of five years, under a penalty of £50. This action was now brought on the bond, and the defendant pleaded that it was void at law. Decided:—That the bond was good, as it only restrained the defendant from trading in a particular place, and was on a reasonable consideration, but that it would have been otherwise if on no reasonable consideration, or to restrain a man from trading at all.

---

MALLAM v. MAY.

(11 M. & W. 658.)

By articles it was agreed that defendant should become assistant to the plaintiffs in their business of surgeon-dentists for four years; that plaintiffs should instruct him in the business of a surgeon-dentist, and that after the expiration of the term the defendant should not carry on that business in London or in any of the towns or places in England or Scotland where the plaintiffs might have been practising before the expiration of the said service. Decided:—That the stipulation not to practise in London was valid, the limit of London not being too large for the profession in question, and that the stipulation as to not practising in towns where the plaintiffs might have been practising during the service was an unreasonable restriction, and therefore illegal and void; but that the stipulation as to not practising in London was not affected by the illegality of the other part.

Notes on these two Cases.—All contracts in general restraint of trade are, notwithstanding any consideration that may exist, perfectly void, because they tend to discourage industry, enterprise, and competition; and even with regard to contracts in limited restraint of trade, it is important to remember that to render them good they must always be founded on a reasonable consideration, and this notwithstanding that the contract may be under seal, in which we find an exception to the rule that contracts under seal require no consideration. The latter of the above two cases plainly shews that agreements in restraint of trade are divisible, i.e. part may be void while part remains good.

SIMPSON v. HARTOPP.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 385.)

(4 T. R. 568; Willes, 514.)

Decided:—Implements of trade are privileged from distress for rent, if they be in actual use at the time, or if there be any other sufficient distress on the premises.

Notes.—Distress, which is a remedy by the act of the party, has been defined as the taking of a personal chattel out of the possession of the wrongdoer into the custody of the injured person, in order to procure a satisfaction of the wrong done (3 Stephen's Comms. 356, 5th edit.) It may be useful here to give a statement of things privileged (a) from distress, and (b) from execution.

(a) The following are privileged from distress :—

1. Things in the personal use of a man.
2. Fixtures affixed to the freehold.
3. Goods of a stranger delivered to tenant to be wrought on in the way of his ordinary trade.
4. Perishable articles.
5. Animals feræ naturæ.
6. Goods in custodia legis.
7. Instruments of a man's trade or profession, though not in actual use, if any other sufficient distress can be found.
8. Beasts of the plough, instruments of husbandry, and beasts which improve the land, if any other sufficient distress can be found.
9. Loose money.
10. Lodgers' goods, by force of the statute 34 & 35 Vict. c. 79.

(b) The following are privileged from being taken in execution :—

1. Wearing apparel and bedding, and implements of trade of any judgment-debtor not exceeding £5.

2. Goods of a stranger.
3. Goods in custodia legis.
4. Fixtures affixed to the freehold.
5. (In the case of an elegit). Advowsons in gross, and glebe lands.

OMICHUND v. BARKER.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 398.)

(Willes, 550.)

The question in this case was whether the evidence of witnesses of the Gentoo religion, and sworn according to that religion, was admissible. Decided:—That the evidence was admissible, and that whenever a witness believes in the existence of a God who will punish him in this world, his evidence must be admitted.

Notes.—In later cases it has been decided that to render the evidence admissible, the belief of the witness must be in the existence of a God who will punish in a future world. However, now by 32 & 33 Vict. c. 68, s. 4, it is provided that on objection to take an oath in any civil or criminal proceeding, such person shall, if the presiding judge * is satisfied that the taking of an oath would have no binding effect on him, make the following promise and declaration: "I solemnly promise and declare that the evidence given by me to the Court shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth;" and the person making such promise and declaration is to be liable for perjury in the same way as if he had taken an oath.

It may be useful here to give a short statement of the law as to the admissibility of witnesses, which now stands as follows:—

6 & 7 Vict. c. 85.—No person offered as a witness shall be hereafter excluded by reason of incapacity from crime or interest from giving evidence.

14 & 15 Vict. c. 99.—Parties to actions and suits, and the persons on whose behalf same are brought and defended, shall (with certain exceptions) be competent and compellable to give evidence; but this is not to render a party charged with a criminal offence able to give evidence for or against himself.

* By 33 & 34 Vict. c. 49, this is to extend to any person or persons having by law authority to administer an oath.

16 & 17 Vict. c. 83.—Husbands and wives are to be competent and compellable witnesses, except in criminal cases; but husband or wife not compelled to disclose any communication made during marriage.

32 & 33 Vict. c. 68.—Parties in breach of promise cases and adultery proceedings are competent but not compellable witnesses, i.e., either party may tender himself or herself as a witness but cannot be subpoenaed by his or her opponent; but in adultery proceedings parties are not bound to confess the adultery unless they have given evidence in disproof of adultery, and in breach of promise cases the evidence of the plaintiff must be corroborated.

17 & 18 Vict. c. 125, ss. 22—27, also contains important provisions as to evidence.

MILLER v. RACE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 468.)

(1 Burr. 452.)

Decided:—That the property in a bank note passes like cash by delivery, and a party taking it bonâ fide, and for value, is entitled to retain it as against a former owner from whom it was stolen.

Notes.—This case establishes the above principle in favour of all negotiable instruments, that is, instruments the property in which passes by delivery so as to give the transferee a right to sue on them in his own name. But if the party taking the negotiable instrument has been guilty of mala fides, he will not be entitled to retain it against the true owner, and gross negligence in taking the negotiable instrument seems to constitute sufficient mala fides.

As to other things, a purchaser, if they are stolen, acquires no title unless he bought in market overt and bonâ fide, and even then, if an offender is prosecuted to conviction no title is acquired, as they revert on conviction to the owner. If goods are sold by a person who found them, they may be recovered by the owner from the person who bought them.

CURRIE AND OTHERS v. MISA.

In this case the defendant drew a cheque for £1999 3s. in favour of one Lizardi or bearer, and he paid it to the plaintiffs, his bankers, in consideration and on account of an amount owing to them exceeding that sum on his overdrawn account. Before presentment of the cheque Lizardi stopped payment, whereby the consideration for the defendant giving the cheque failed, and he accordingly instructed his bankers not to honour it. This was an action brought to recover the amount of the cheque. Decided (Lord Coleridge, C.J., dissentient):—that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover.

Notes.—This case is placed here to follow that of Miller v. Race, as relating to negotiable securities, and it is a decision of very considerable importance, though it must be considered somewhat weaker than it would have been had the Lord Chief Justice concurred in the judgment.

In the circumstances of this case, which are very briefly stated above, had the cheque remained in the hands of Lizardi, the original drawee, the consideration failing, of course no action could have been maintained on it. And, again, had he parted with it for value then paid bonâ fide without the party taking it having any notice of his infirmity of title, there could have been no doubt but that the party so taking it must have had a perfect title to it and right to the money. But here the great difference and point in the case was, that it was paid over on account of a pre-existing debt, and on this ground of no value being then paid,

34 AN EPITOME OF LEADING COMMON LAW CASES.

the Lord Chief Justice considered that the defendant ought to have judgment. The majority of the Court, however, clearly decided that this made no difference, and that the plaintiff was entitled to recover, the ground and reasoning for the decision being that a creditor to whom a negotiable security is given on account of a pre-existing debt, holds it by an indefeasible title.

WIGGLESWORTH v. DALLISON.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 539.)

(Dougk. 204.)

Decided:—That a custom that the tenant of land, whether by parol or deed, shall have the away-going crop, after the expiration of his term, is good, if not repugnant to the lease under which the tenant holds.

Notes.—But if the lease does contain certain stipulations as to the mode of quitting, then, of course, that puts out the custom, and the terms in the lease prevail, which is in accordance with the maxim, "Expressum facit cessare tacitum."

KEECH v. HALL.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 523.)
(Dougl. 21.)

Decided:—That a mortgagee may recover in ejectment without giving notice to quit, against a tenant claiming under a lease from the mortgagor made after the mortgage without the privity of the mortgagee.

---

MOSS v. GALLIMORE.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 561.)
(Dougl. 279.)

Decided:—That a mortgagee, after giving notice of the mortgage to a tenant in possession under a lease prior to the mortgage, is entitled to the rent in arrear at the time of the notice, as well as to what accrues after, and he may distrain for it after such notice.

Notes on these two Cases.—It is well to observe carefully the different results appearing from these two cases. The mortgagor having mortgaged his property cannot himself grant any valid lease, and any such lease is in fact a nullity, and being so the mortgagee can of course avoid it altogether; but if the mortgagor before the mortgage made a lease that is perfectly good, the mortgagee cannot avoid it, but to obtain the full benefit of his security he can give notice to the tenant, and obtain not only accruing rents, but also rent in arrear, towards liquidation of the amount due on his security. The Judicature Act, 1873, contains a somewhat important provision as to mortgagors' powers, viz.

that a mortgagor entitled for the time being to possession when mortgagee has given no notice of his intention to take possession, may sue for such possession or for recovery of rents and profits, or to prevent or recover damages in respect of any trespass or other wrong relative thereto in his own name only, unless the cause of action arises upon a lease or other contract made by him jointly with any other person (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 25 (5) ).

The different remedies which a mortgagee has, after default, to obtain payment of his mortgage money are as follows:—
 (a) Ejectment against mortgagor and his tenants since mortgage, as decided in Keech v. Hall. (b) Suing on bond or covenant. (c) Obtaining rents from tenants prior to the mortgage by giving notice, as decided in Moss v. Gallimore. (d) Selling under the power of sale in mortgage deed, or under the power given by 23 & 24 Vict. c. 145. (e) When in possession cutting timber if security insufficient. (f) Foreclosing. If a mortgagee forecloses and then sues, the effect of suing is to open the foreclosure and give the mortgagee a renewed right to redeem; and therefore, if mortgagee forecloses and then sells, he cannot afterwards sue, because he no longer has the mortgaged estate ready to be redeemed if the mortgagor should choose to redeem (Lockart v. Hardy, 9 Beav. 349). But although this is so, yet it is decided that a mortgagee, after selling under his power of sale, may sue on the covenant to pay (Rudge v. Rickens, 28 L. T. 537).

A mortgagee may exercise his different remedies as he pleases, even concurrently. A mortgagee will not be entitled to add to his mortgage debt sums expended at his own motion for general improvement, but he will be allowed to add sums expended for necessary repairs, protecting the title, or renewing renewable leaseholds. But neither a mortgagee nor mortgagor is actually bound to renew a renewable leasehold in the absence of contract so to do.

MOSTYN v. FABRIGAS.

(Cowp. 161.)

This was an action against the Governor of Minorca for trespass and false imprisonment in Minorca, and after verdict for the plaintiff (Fabrigas), the principal question on a bill of exceptions was whether any action could be maintained by a native of Minorca for an injury committed there. Decided :—That the action would lie, being of a transitory nature, but that if it had been strictly local no action could have been maintained in England.

Notes.—Local actions are those founded on some cause of action which necessarily refers to some particular locality; transitory actions are those founded on a cause of action which might be supposed to take place anywhere.

By the Rules in the Schedule to the Judicature Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 77), the whole law of venue is abolished. Order 36, r. 1, providing as follows :—

“There shall be no local venue for the trial of any action, but when the plaintiff proposes to have the action tried elsewhere than in Middlesex, he shall in his statement of claim name the county or place in which he proposes that the action shall be tried, and the action shall, unless the judge otherwise orders, be tried in the county or place so named. Where no place of trial is named in the statement of claim, the place of trial shall, unless the judge otherwise orders, be the county of Middlesex.”

LICKBARROW v. MASON.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 699.)

(2 T. R. 63.)

Decided:—That the consignor of goods may stop the goods in transitu before they get into the hands of the consignee on the bankruptcy or insolvency of the consignee; but if the consignee has assigned the bill of lading to a third person for a valuable consideration bonâ fide without notice, the right of the consignor is gone.

Notes.—"Stoppage in transitu," which is a prevention of wrong by a mere personal act, is the right which a vendor having sold goods on credit has to stop them on their way to the vendee, before they have reached him, on his becoming bankrupt or insolvent. If the goods have actually reached the vendee, or an agent on the part of the vendee, then the right is gone, as the very name "stoppage in transitu" imports. The rule to be collected from the cases is stated to be that the goods are "in transitu" so long as they are in the hands of the carrier as such, whether he was or was not appointed by the consignee, and also so long as they remain in any place of deposit connected with their transmission. But that if after their arrival at the place of destination they be warehoused with the carrier, whose store the vendee uses as his own, or even if they be warehoused with the vendor himself, and rent be paid for them, that puts an end to the right to stop "in transitu." It is not necessary, in exercising the right of stoppage in transitu, that the vendor should actually seize the goods, for notice to the carrier or other forwarding agent is enough.

FIGOT'S CASE.

(11 Rep. at fol. 27A.)

Decided:—That if an obligee himself alters a deed, either by interlineation, addition, erasing, or by drawing a pen through the line, &c., although it is in words not material, yet the deed is void; but if a stranger without his privity alters the deed by any of the said ways in any points not material, it shall not avoid the deed.

---

MASTER v. MILLER.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 796.)
(4 T. R. 340.)

Decided:—That an unauthorized alteration in a bill of exchange after acceptance, whereby the payment would be accelerated, avoids the instrument, and no action can be maintained upon it, even by an innocent holder for valuable consideration.

---

ALDOUS v. CORNWELL.

Here a promissory note made by defendant expressed no time for payment, and while it was in the possession of the payee (the plaintiff) the words "on demand" were added without the assent of the maker. This action was now brought on the note ; and on the plea of the defendant that he did not make it, Decided:—That as the alteration only expressed the effect of the note as it originally stood, and was therefore immaterial, it did not affect the validity of the instrument.

Notes on these three Cases.—Pigot's Case related only to deeds; but Master v. Miller extended its doctrine, as far as regarded material alterations, to bills of exchange, and subsequent cases have applied it indiscriminately to all written instruments whether under seal or not. However, it is not now entirely good law, for such an immaterial alteration in a deed or other writing as filling in a date where a blank is left, though done by the party, does not at all vitiate it. Aldous v. Cornwell is cited as being a recent case, and plainly shewing that a mere immaterial alteration in a negotiable instrument does not affect it. If a material alteration is made in an instrument by consent, the instrument is a new contract requiring a new stamp, unless such alteration was made to correct a mistake and make the instrument what it was originally intended to be (Sm. C. L. Man. 4th edit. 253).

WAUGH v. CARVER.

(S. L. C., Vol. I., p. 838.)

(2 Hen. Blackstone., 235.)

Here certain ship-agents at different ports entered into an agreement to share in certain proportions the profits of their respective commissions and the discount on the bills of tradesmen employed by them in repairing the ships consigned to them, &c. Decided:—That by this agreement they became liable as partners to all persons with whom either contracted as such agent, though the agreement provided that neither should be answerable for the acts or losses of the other, but each for his own; for he who takes the general profits of a partnership must of necessity be made liable to the losses, and he who lends his name as a partner becomes as against all the world a partner.

COX v. HICKMAN.

(8 H. L. Cas. 268.)

Here S. & S. becoming embarrassed had executed a deed assigning their property to trustees whom they empowered to carry on the business under the name of the Stanton Iron Company, and do all necessary acts, with power to the majority of the creditors assembled at a meeting to make rules for conducting the business or to put an end to it, and after the debts had been discharged the property was to be re-transferred by the trustees to S. & S. Two of the creditors, C. and N., were named amongst the trustees; C. never acted; N. acted for six weeks and then resigned. Some time afterwards the other trustees who continued to carry on the business became indebted to H., and gave him bills accepted by themselves "per proc. the Stanton Iron Company."—Held:—That there was no partnership created by the deed, and that consequently C. & N. could not be sued on the bill as partners in the company.

Notes on these two Cases.—Waugh v. Carver is given in 'Smith's Leading Cases,' as the leading case on the question of what constitutes a partnership, but Cox v. Hickman is a later case, and perhaps a better authority to quote on the point. Partnership has been defined as "the voluntary association of two or more persons who contribute money, effects, labour, care, or skill for the purpose of carrying on as principals a common undertaking for a lawful object for their common profit" (Sm. C. L. Manl. 4th ed. 194). By 28 & 29 Vict. c. 86, it is enacted that none of the following events shall of themselves constitute a partnership:

(1.) The advance of money by way of loan to a person engaged in a trade or undertaking upon a contract to receive interest varying with the profits or a share of the profits.

(2.) A contract for the remuneration of a servant or agent of any person engaged in a trade or undertaking by a share of the profits.

(3.) The receiving by a widow or child of the deceased partner of a trader of a portion of the profits by way of annuity.

(4.) The receiving by any person of a portion of the profits of any business in consideration of the sale by him of the goodwill of such business. But in the case of bankruptcy, &c., the lender of any such loan, or the vendor of any such goodwill, is not to be entitled to recover any such profit as aforesaid until the claims of the other creditors for valuable consideration have been satisfied.

A dormant partner is one who, though not appearing as a partner, yet in reality is one, and he is liable in common with other partners, and a nominal partner is one who, without participating in the profits, yet lends his name to the firm, and he is liable to third parties if his holding out as a partner has come to their knowledge. Though partners are jointly interested, yet, on death of one, his share forms part of his own personal estate, and though on the death of one the legal interest in choses in action survives to the others, yet they are in equity but trustees for the share of deceased partner. The power of one partner to bind the other depends on the ordinary principles of agency, and in the same way that a general agent binds his principal by all contracts within the scope of his agency, so one partner binds the other by all such transactions as are within the scope of the partnership dealings, though the partners may have privately agreed that no such power should exist. Thus, in mercantile partnerships one partner can bind the others by a bill of exchange, though one member of a firm of attorneys would have no such power; but a partner cannot bind his firm by a deed unless he is authorized by deed so to do. A partner is not liable on contracts entered into before he became a member of the firm.

A partnership may be dissolved:

1. By effluxion of time.
2. By mutual consent.
3. If a partnership at will by a notice, unless such dissolution would be in ill faith, or would work an irreparable injury.
4. By a general assignment by one or more partners, or by execution on the partnership effects by a creditor of one of the partners, or by an assignment of his share in the business, or by his bankruptcy, or outlawry, or attainder for treason or felony.
5. By death of a partner.
6. By marriage of a female partner, and
7. By decree of a Court of Equity, which will be granted on any of the following grounds.—(a) Where the partnership originated in fraud, misrepresentation, or oppression; or (b) Where it cannot be carried on at all, or at least according to the stipulations in the articles, or without injury to all the partners; or (c) Where one of the partners is permanently insane, or incapable, or guilty of gross misconduct as partner. (See Sm. C. L. Manl. 4th ed. 207.)

CUTTER v. POWELL.

(6 T. R. 330.)

Here the defendant gave to one Cutter deceased a note as follows:—"Ten days after the ship Governor Parry, myself master, arrives at Liverpool I promise to pay to Mr. T. Cutter the sum of thirty guineas, provided he proceeds, continues, and does his duty as second mate to the said ship from hence to the port of Liverpool, Kingston; the 31st of July, 1793." Cutter died during the voyage, and this action was brought by his representatives. Decided:—That deceased not having proceeded, continued, and done his duty for the whole voyage, nothing could be recovered by his representatives.

Notes.—The general rule is that while the special contract remains unperformed, no action of indebitatus assumpsit can be brought for anything done under it. There are, however, exceptions, and it is often very difficult in practice to decide when and when not an action can be maintained.

BICKERDIKE v. BOLLMAN.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 45.)

(1 T. R. 405.)

Decided:—That notice of dishonour of a bill is not necessary if a drawer had no effects in the hands of the drawee, so that he could not be injured for want of notice.

Notes.—The result of this decision may be illustrated thus:—A. draws on B., who accepts for A.'s accommodation, and on presentment to B. the bill is dishonoured; to entitle the holder to sue A. (the drawer) it is not necessary to give him any notice of dishonour, because as he had no assets in B.'s hands, he cannot possibly be injured. Were it an ordinary acceptance of course the drawer could not be sued unless notice of dishonour was duly given to him. But it has been decided that the principle of this case must not be extended, and notice must be given if the drawer have reason to expect that some third party will provide for payment of the bill; and if the drawer had effects in the drawee's hands at the time when the bill was drawn, he does not lose his right to notice, although before the time of payment he may have ceased to have any.

The proper time for giving notice of dishonour when the person lives at or near the place of dishonour, or where the giver of notice himself received notice, is such a time that it may be received by the expiration of the day after the dishonour, or after the time when the giver of the notice himself received notice, for each indorser "has his day" for giving notice. When the person is not living at or near the place it is enough to give notice by the post of the next post day, or when it is a foreign bill by the next ordinary conveyance. When the bill is at a banker's the banker has a day to give notice to customer, and the customer, another day to give notice to the prior parties.

48 AN EPITOME OF LEADING COMMON LAW CASES.

A cheque must be presented for payment by the day after the day of its receipt, or if the parties live at a distance, forwarded for presentment within that time, and the result of this time not being observed is to exonerate the drawer of the cheque if the banker fails in the meantime having assets of the drawer. It is not necessary to give notice of dishonour of a cheque if there were no sufficient effects at the time when the drawer would naturally expect the cheque to be presented and the drawer had no reasonable expectation that cheque would be cashed.

PANSON v. STUART.

(S. L. C., Vol. II, p. 57.)

(1 T. R. 748.)

Decided :—That to print of any one that he is a swindler, is a libel and actionable, for it is not necessary, in order to maintain an action for libel, that the imputation should be one which if spoken would be actionable as a slander.

Notes.—The student is recommended to turn to this case and read the facts—too long to be stated here—as, though there is no particular legal importance in them, they will, without doubt, impress the case firmly on his memory. The legal point to remember in this case is that writing may constitute a cause of action as a libel, when the words if only spoken would not without proof of special damage. Words which are slanderous in themselves, i.e. will support an action without any proof of special damage, are words which impute (1) some offence punishable by the criminal law, or that a man has been actually convicted; or (2), some misconduct or incapacity in the plaintiff's trade, profession, or office; or (3), that the plaintiff actually labours under a contagious disorder, the imputation of which may exclude him from society.

It may here be noted that it is now clearly decided that the Court of Equity has no jurisdiction to interfere by way of injunction to restrain the publication of a libel (The Prudential Assurance Co. v. Knott, 44 L. J. (Ch.) 192).

CLAYTON v. BLAKEY.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 103.)

(8 T. R. 3.)

Decided:—That though by the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3, s. 1), it is enacted that all leases by parol for more than three years shall have the effect of estates at will only, such a lease may be made to enure as a tenancy from year to year.

---

DOE d. RIGGE v. BELL.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 98.)

(5 T. R. 471.)

Decided:—That, although a lease is void by the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3, s. 1), and therefore the tenant holds not under the lease, but as tenant from year to year, yet such holding is governed by the terms of the lease in other respects.

Notes on these two Cases.—The principle upon which the tenancy, which by 29 Car. 2, c. 3, s. 1, it is declared, not being created by writing, shall be only a tenancy at will, is converted into a tenancy from year to year, is, that originally in accordance with the statute it is but an estate at will, but afterwards by the payment of rent, or from other circumstances indicative of an intention to create such yearly tenancy, it becomes converted into a tenancy from year to year, to which latter certain tenancy the Courts always lean in preference to the uncertain tenancy of an estate at will. For the rule to determine when a tenancy is at will, and when for years, see Richardson v. Langridge (Indermaur's Con. & Eq. Cas. p. 1).

The decision in Doe d. Rigge v. Bell, that the holding is regulated by the other terms of the lease, arises rather as a matter of evidence than of law. That case is where the lease itself was void, but the same rule applies to the case of a tenant holding over after the expiration of his term under a valid lease, for there, after there has been a payment and acceptance of subsequent rent, the law, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, implies that he continues to hold on such of the terms of the previous demise as are applicable to a tenancy from year to year.

DOVASTON v. PAYNE.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 132.)

(2 Hen. Blackstone, 527.)

This was an action of replevin for taking plaintiff's cattle, and to an avowry that defendant was seised in fee of the locus in quo, and took the cattle damage feasant, it was pleaded that the locus in quo lay next a public highway, and the plaintiff's cattle 'being in the said highway' escaped into the locus in quo through the defect of the fences, and to this plea there was a special demurrer. Decided:—That the plea ought to shew that the cattle were passing on the highway when they escaped, and that it was not sufficient to state that being in the highway they escaped.

Notes.—This may perhaps be considered by some students as rather a quibble, but the reason is apparent, viz.: that the highway was only for cattle to pass along, and that they had no right to remain and be there; and, of course, in all pleadings there must be certainty.

ELWES v. MAWE.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 153.)

(3 East, 38.)

Decided.—That although tenants may remove fixtures erected for the purposes of their trades, yet tenants in agriculture cannot remove fixtures erected for the purposes of husbandry.

Notes.—This case is useful to cite on the general principle of fixtures, but the law contained in it is now altered, for 14 & 15 Vict. c. 25, s. 3, provides that buildings, engines, &c., &c., erected for agricultural purposes, with the consent in writing of the landlord, shall remain the property of, and removeable by, the tenant, so that he do no injury in the removal thereof; but before removal one month's notice shall be given to the landlord, who has the option of purchasing.

The law, then, as to fixtures shortly stands thus: The tenant may remove those erected for the purposes of trade, domestic use, or ornament; or agricultural fixtures, as provided by the above statute; but all such fixtures must be removed before the expiration of the term, or during such further period as the tenant holds under a right to consider himself as tenant, otherwise they become the property of the landlord, being considered as a gift in law to him.

Where either freeholds or leaseholds having fixtures thereon are mortgaged, the fixtures will pass to the mortgagee, and as to the question of whether such a mortgage would be within the Bills of Sale Act, and require to be registered, the rule now is that it would be if the mortgagee is enabled under the mortgage deed to deal with the fixtures separately from the building, but not otherwise (Ex parte Barclay, L. R. 9 Ch. App. 576; Ex parte Daglish, L. R. 8 Ch. App. 1072).

WAIN v. WARLTERS.

(8. L. C., Vol. II., p. 221.)

(5 East, 10.)

*Decided:—*That by the word “agreement” in the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3, s. 4), must be understood not only the promise itself, but also the consideration for the promise; so that a promise appearing to be without consideration on the face of the written engagement was nudum pactum, and gave no cause of action.

Notes.—This decision is now subject to the statute 19 & 20 Vict. c. 97, s. 3, which provides that a guarantee shall not be invalid by reason only that a consideration does not appear in writing, or by necessary inference from a written document. But of course there must even here be a consideration, though it need not appear in the written instrument.

In the case also of bills of exchange and promissory notes it is not necessary that the consideration should appear on the face of the instrument.

DALBY v. INDIA AND LONDON LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

(15 C. B. 365.)

Decided:—(1) That the contract of life assurance is a contract to pay a certain sum of money on the death of a person in consideration of the due payment of a certain annuity for his life, and that it is not a mere contract of indemnity, as policies against fire and marine risks.

(2) That the interest necessary under 14 Geo. 3, c. 48, s. 3, is an interest at the time of effecting the insurance, and not at the time of recovery of the money; therefore although at the time of recovery the interest is gone, yet if at the time of effecting the insurance the person effecting it had a proper interest, he can recover.

HEBDON v. WEST.

(3 B. & S. 579.)

Decided:—That, where there are several policies effected with different offices, the insured can recover no more from the insurers, whether on one policy or many, than the amount of his insurable interest.

Notes on these two Cases.—The case of Dalby v. India and London Life Assurance Company distinctly overrules that of Godsall v. Boldero (9 East, 72), (which will be found set out in 'Smith's Leading Cases,' vol. ii. p. 237), where it had been, in fact, decided that life, like fire assurance, was but a contract of indemnity. The above case is one of the greatest importance, as plainly laying down that if a person has an interest at the time of effecting the life policy, he can afterwards recover, although his interest has gone; thus, if a creditor insures his debtor's life, although he is afterwards paid, yet he can recover from the insurance office.

It should be mentioned that the statute (14 Geo. 3, c. 48) referred to in the above case, does not extend to prevent individuals from effecting insurances upon their own lives, provided that it be done bonâ fide.

A wife has an insurable interest in the life of her husband, but a husband, parent, or child has no insurable interest in the lives of a wife, child, or parent, unless he or she has some interest in property dependent on their lives. By the Married Women's Property Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 93, s. 10), a married woman may effect a policy of insurance upon her own life, or the life of her husband, for her separate use; and a policy of insurance by a married man on his own life, if so expressed on its face, may enure as a trust for the benefit of his wife and children, or any of them, and as a trust not be subject to the control of the husband or his creditors. But if it was effected for the purpose of defrauding creditors they are entitled to receive out of the sum secured an amount equal to the premiums paid.

Perfect good faith is necessary in effecting a policy of insurance, and any fraud, misrepresentation, or even non-communication of material circumstances, by the party insuring, or his agents, will render the policy void.

GEORGE v. CLAGETT.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 113.)

(7 T. R. 359.)

Decided:—That if a factor sells goods as his own, and the buyer does not know of any principal other than the factor, and the principal afterwards declares himself, and demands payment of the price of the goods, the buyer may set off any demand he may have on the factor against the demand made by the principal.

Notes.—But if the buyer have the means of knowing that the party with whom he contracts is but an agent, this rule does not apply.

It may be well to note here the powers of factors over goods entrusted to their possession. At common law the mere position of principal and factor confers a power to sell at such times and prices as the factor may in his discretion think best, but does not confer any power to pledge. This was considered by the mercantile community an undue restriction of the operation of commerce, and in consequence two statutes were passed, 6 & 7 Geo. 4, c. 94, and 5 & 6 Vict. c. 39, commonly known as the "Factors' Acts," the effect of which statutes taken conjointly has been shortly stated as follows:—

"First: Where goods or documents for the delivery of goods are pledged as a security for present or future advances with the knowledge that they are not the property of the factor, but without notice that he is acting without authority, in such case the pledgee acquires an absolute lien.

Secondly: Where goods are pledged by a factor without notice to the pledgee that they are the property of another, as a security for a pre-existing debt, in that case the pledgee acquires the same right as the factor had.

58 AN EPITOME OF LEADING COMMON LAW CASES.

Thirdly : Where a contract to pledge is made in consideration of the delivery of other goods or documents of title, upon which the person delivering them up had a lien for a previous advance (which is deemed to be a contract for a present advance), in that case the pledgee acquires an absolute lien to the extent of the value of the goods given up" (Chitty's Statutes, 3rd ed. vol. ii. tit. "Factors").

These statutes do not apply to transactions not mercantile, nor to cases of persons to whose employment a power of sale is not ordinarily incident.

ADDISON v. GANDESEQUI.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 320.)

(4 Taunt. 574.)

In this case the defendant, being abroad and desirous of purchasing certain goods, came to England and went to his agents, L. & Co. These agents purchased the goods for him from the plaintiffs, he selecting them, and the plaintiffs debited the agents, L. & Co., with the price. Decided:—That the plaintiffs could not now recover the price against defendant, having known who the principal was, and yet debited the agents.

---

PATERSON v. GANDESEQUI.

(S. L. C. Vol. II. p. 313.)

(15 East, 62.)

The facts in this case were of a similar nature to those of the previous one, and on the trial the plaintiff had been nonsuited. A rule nisi was afterwards obtained to set aside the nonsuit, and on argument it was made absolute, the Court considering that there was some doubt whether or not the plaintiff knew of the defendant being the principal. But the following general principles were laid down, agreeing with the previous case:—That if the seller of goods, knowing at the time that the buyer, though dealing with him in his own name, is in truth the agent of another, elect to give the credit to such agent, he cannot afterwards recover the value against the known principal: but if the principal be not known at the time of the purchase made by the agent, it seems that, when discovered, the principal or the agent may be sued, at the election of the seller; unless where, by the usage of trade, the credit is understood to be confined to the agent so dealing, as particularly in the case of principals residing abroad.

THOMPSON v. DAVENPORT.

(S. L. C., Vol. II. p. 327.)

(9 B. & C. 78.)

Here, Davenport sold goods to one M'Kune, who told him he was buying them on account of another person, but did not mention the principal's name, and Davenport did not inquire for it, but debited M'Kune. M'Kune failed, and Davenport sued Thompson, who was the principal, for the price. The verdict was given for the plaintiffs, and was now affirmed on writ of error, it being decided:—That the seller might sue the principal for the price, he not having known who the principal was at the time.

Notes on these three Cases.—The above are the leading cases on the subject of principal and agent, and are usually cited together as being very closely connected, and jointly bearing on the point. The case of George v. Clagett (p. 57) is sometimes confused with these three cases, and for easy reference and consideration with them, it is here placed immediately preceding them. That was a case where the owner of the goods employed an agent to sell them, and afterwards declared himself: but these three cases are where goods were purchased by an agent, and the point is, who is liable for the price. It is, therefore, evident that George v. Clagett must not be confused by the student with these three cases.

An agent's authority may be determined in any of the following ways:—

1. By revocation.
2. By the agent's renunciation with principal's consent.
3. By principal's death.
4. By principal's bankruptcy.
5. By fulfilment of the commission.
6. By expiration of time.
7. When the agent is a feme sole, by her marriage.

In order to determine the agent's authority by revocation means should be used to make known such revocation as fully as the employment was known. To correspondents express notice should be given, and to strangers a general notice in the Gazette (Sm. C. L. Manl. 4th ed. 366).

MANBY v. SCOTT.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 396.)
(1 Sid. 109.)

Decided:—That the wife's contract does not bind the husband unless she act by his authority.

---

MONTAGUE v. BENEDICT.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 429.)
(3 B. & C. 631.)

This was an action against a husband for certain goods—not necessities—delivered to the wife of the defendant.
Decided:—That as the goods were not necessities, and there was no evidence to go to the jury of any assent of the defendant (the husband) to the contract made by his wife, the action could not be maintained.

SEATON v. BENEDICT.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 436.)
(5 Bing. 28.)

This was an action against the same defendant as in the previous case. The claim was for certain goods—which were in the nature of necessities—delivered to the wife of the defendant. It was, however, shewn that the defendant had supplied his wife's wardrobe well with all necessary articles. Decided :—That a husband who supplies his wife with necessaries in her degree is not liable for debts contracted by her without his previous authority or subsequent sanction.

Notes on these three Cases.—Manby v. Scott is a very old case which occurred in the reign of Charles II., and seems to be cited in 'Smith's Leading Cases,' in some degree, as a specimen of "that laborious process of investigation to which important questions of law were anciently submitted." The general principle established in that case is, however, still good law; but it must be remembered that, with regard to necessaries supplied to the wife, it may not be necessary to shew any specific authority of the husband to charge him, for the wife from her position has an implied authority for that purpose, unless the contrary appears; and in Seaton v. Benedict the contrary did appear, for the wife was sufficiently supplied with necessaries. It should here be mentioned, that if a man takes a woman to his house and lives with her as his wife, she stands in the same position with regard to her power to charge him as if she were actually married to him.

The whole power which a wife has to bind her husband for necessaries arises from the fact that during cohabitation there is a presumption arising from the very circumstances of the cohabitation of the husband's assent to contracts made by his wife for necessaries suitable to his degree and estate; and where the wife is living apart from the husband, there is no presumption that she has any authority to bind him, and it must be shewn that from the circumstances of the separation, or the conduct of the husband, she has such authority. When the husband and wife are living separate, the law as to the husband's liability is as follows :—

Firstly: Where they separate by mutual consent, and no allowance is made to the wife, she has an implied authority to bind him for necessaries.

Secondly: Where the husband unjustly expels his wife from the marital roof, or forces her to abandon it by his cruelty, she goes forth with an implied authority to bind him for necessities.

Thirdly: Where they live separately, the husband allowing and paying the wife a sufficient sum for maintenance, she has no authority to bind him for necessities.

Fourthly: Where the wife unlawfully and against the husband's consent leaves him, or if she elopes or lives in adultery, she has no implied authority to bind him.

With reference to the husband's liability for the debts of his wife contracted before marriage, formerly he was always so liable, but the Married Women's Property Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 93, s. 12), provides that "A husband shall not by reason of any marriage which shall take place after this Act has come into operation be liable for the debts of his wife contracted before marriage; but the wife shall be liable to be sued for, and any property belonging to her for her separate use shall be liable to satisfy, such debts as if she had continued unmarried." This Act came into operation on 9th August, 1870.*

Notwithstanding the very wide words of this section it has been decided that though by it a married woman may be sued, yet she cannot be made a bankrupt, at least not unless she has a separate estate (Ex parte Holland, In re Heneage, L. R. 9 Ch. 307).

* It may be considered doubtful whether this Act does not alter the rule that a husband is always liable to pay his wife's solicitor's costs of their marriage settlement, as it may be looked on simply as a debt of the wife's contracted before marriage.

ROE v. TRANMAR.

(S. L. C., Vol. II. p. 468.)

(Willes, 682.)

Here it was held that a deed which could not operate as a release, as it attempted to convey a freehold in futuro, should nevertheless operate as a covenant to stand seised.

Notes.—The principle which this case carries out is one of great importance, forming, indeed, one of the first rules of construction of all written instruments, viz., “The construction shall be liberal; words ought to serve the intention, not contrarywise.”

MERRYWEATHER v. NIXAN.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 481.)

(8 T. R. 186.)

Decided:—That if A. recover in tort against two defendants and levy the whole damage on one, that one cannot recover a moiety against the other for his contribution; though it is otherwise in assumpsit.

Notes.—This decision seems to be only a modification of the maxim, "Ex turpi causâ non oritur actio," and the whole decision may be shortly expressed by saying that as between defendants ex contractu the law allows contribution, but not between defendants ex delicto.

VICARS v. WILCOCKS.

(S. L. C., Vol. II, p. 487.)

(8 East, 1.)

In this case it appeared that the plaintiff had been retained by J. O. as a journeyman, and that the defendant had, in discourses with third persons, imputed to the plaintiff that he had maliciously cut the defendant's cordage in his rope-yard, and that in consequence of such imputation the said J. O. had discharged plaintiff from his service, and he had thus been much injured.

Decided :—That damage to be actionable, must not be too remote; and that where special damage is necessary to sustain an action for slander, it is not sufficient to prove a mere wrongful act of a third person induced by the slander, such as that he dismissed the plaintiff from his employ before the end of the term for which they had contracted; but the special damage must be a legal and natural consequence of the slander.

LUMLEY v. GYE.

(22 L. J. (N. S.) Q. B. 463.)

This was an action by the manager of one theatre against the manager of another for damages for inducing a singer to break her engagement with him, and the doctrine in Vicars v. Wilcocks, as above, was urged to frustrate the action—the damage of course resulting from a wrongful act.

Decided :—That the action could be maintained.

---

HADLEY v. BAXENDALE.

(9 Ex. 341.)

This was an action of assumpsit brought against the defendants as carriers. The plaintiffs, the owners of a mill, finding one of the shafts broken, sent to defendant's office a servant, who informed the clerk there, that the mill was stopped, and that the shaft must be sent at once, and the clerk informing him that if sent any day before twelve o'clock it would be delivered the following day, the shaft was sent and the carriage paid. The neglect arose in the non-delivery in sufficient time, whereby the making of a new shaft was delayed several days. Evidence was given of the loss of profits caused by the stoppage of the mill, which was objected to by the defendants as being too remote. Decided :—That the loss of the profits could not be taken into account in estimating the damages; and that the damages in respect of breach of contract should be such as might fairly and reasonably be considered either arising naturally, or such as may reasonably have been supposed to have been in the contemplation of both parties at the time they made the contract as the probable result of the breach of it.

Notes on these three Cases.—These cases embrace the question of the proper measure of damages in actions of tort, and of contract, and the subject being of very great importance a few observations on it may be found useful.

Firstly. In actions of contract. The rule in assessing damages here is much more strictly confined than in actions of tort, and generally the primary and immediate result of the breach of contract only can be looked to, thus, in the case of non-payment of money, no matter what amount of inconvenience is sustained by the plaintiff, the measure of damages is the interest of the money only. The principle seems to be in these cases that in matters of contract the damages to which a party is liable for its breach ought to be in proportion to the benefit he is to receive from its performance. Mr. Mayne in his Treatise on Damages (p. 8) says: "It is obviously unfair that either party should be paid for carrying out his bargain on one estimate of its value, and forced to pay for failing in it on quite a different estimate. This would be making him an insurer of the other party's profits without any premium for undertaking the risk."

Now, as to the grounds of damage which will in no case be admissible, they may be classed under the general head of remoteness. "Damage," says Mr. Mayne (p. 26), "is said to be too remote when, though arising out of the cause of action it does not so immediately and necessarily flow from it as that the offending party can be made responsible for it." And it is here that the case of Hadley v. Baxendale (which is one intended to settle the law upon the subject, and which has since been acted upon), comes in, laying down the rule as given above in that case, and which rule was shortly stated by Blackburn, J., in Cory v. Thames Iron Works Co. (L. R. 3 Q. B. 186) thus: "The damages are to be what would be the natural consequences of a breach under circumstances which both parties were aware of." If the damages are not within this rule, then they are too remote and cannot be admitted.

Secondly. In actions of tort. The rule here as to damages is of a very much looser character than in actions of contract, and it naturally is so from the nature of the action. With the one exception of actions for breach of promise of marriage, the motives or conduct of a party breaking a contract, or any injurious circumstance not flowing from the breach itself, cannot be considered as damages where the action is on the contract, but torts may be mingled with ingredients which will increase the damages to any amount, for a trespass may be attended with circumstances of insult; or, generally, in an action of tort any species of aggravation will give ground for additional damages, and it is in such cases as this that the rule can go no further than to point out what evidence may be admitted, and what grounds of complaint may be allowed for, and the rest must be left to the jury.

Again, however, in considering the grounds of damage which will be admitted here, we must remember that it must not be too remote, and on this point the case of Vicars v. Wilcocks may be given. That case, however, goes particularly to lay down the rule that the wrongful act of some third party, induced by defendant, can never be taken into consideration in assessing the damage against defendant, for the damage must be not only the natural but also the legal consequence of that. This doctrine, manifestly unjust, after having been shaken by various authorities, seems to be now finally overruled by the above case of Lumley v. Gye, the effect of which is to alter the rule in Vicars v. Wilcocks, by allowing that the wrongful act of a third party may form part of the damage where such wrongful act might be naturally contemplated as likely to spring from the defendant's conduct.

As to the time to which any damages whether in contract or tort may be assessed, of course no damages can be given on account of anything before the cause of action arose, and as to damages subsequent to the cause of action, the result of the decisions is stated by Mr. Mayne (p. 59) to be, that such damages "may be taken into consideration where they are the natural and necessary result of the act complained of, and where they do not themselves constitute a new cause of action."

For further information on the subject of Damages the student is referred to Mr. Mayne's Treatise on Damages, from which work the above notes are mainly gathered.

NEPEAN v. DOE.

(S. L. C., Vol. II., p. 510.)
(2 M. & W. 894.)

Decided:—That where a person goes abroad and is not heard of for seven years the law presumes the fact that such person is dead, but not that he died at the beginning or the end of any particular period during those seven years.

Notes.—Of course, this presumption of law is liable to be rebutted, and though there is no presumption of law as to the period of death, such a presumption might arise from particular circumstances; but this is matter of evidence, and the onus of proving that the death took place at any particular time within the seven years lies upon the person who claims a right to the establishment of which that fact is essential. There is also no presumption of law in favour of the continuance of life, though an inference of fact may legitimately be drawn that a person alive and in health on a certain day was alive a short time afterwards (In re Phené, L. R. 5 Ch. 139).

DUCHESS OF KINGSTON'S CASE.

(Bul. N. P. 244.)

In this case there were two questions submitted to the judges:—(1) Is the sentence of a spiritual court against a marriage, in a suit for jactitation of marriage, conclusive, so as to stop the counsel for the Crown from proving the said marriage in an indictment for Polygamy? (2) Admitting such sentence to be conclusive upon such indictment, may the counsel for the Crown be admitted to avoid the effect of the sentence by proving the same to have been obtained by fraud or collusion? Decided:—(1) That the sentence was not so conclusive. And (2) That even admitting that it were, yet it might be avoided by shewing fraud or collusion.

Notes.—This case embraces the doctrine of estoppel, the definition of which Lord Coke gives thus: “An estoppel is where a man is concluded by his own act or acceptance to say the truth;” but more plainly, it is “an admission, or something treated by the law as equal to an admission, of such a high and conclusive character that the party whom it affects is not permitted to answer or offer evidence against it.” Estoppel is of three kinds: (1) By matter of record; (2) By deed; and (3) In pais, which latter means, matter, of fact.

The doctrine of estoppel does not prevent a deed from being impeachable for fraud or illegality (See Collins v. Blantern, ante, p. 25).

HOCHSTER v. DE LA TOUR.

(2 EU. & BI. 678.)

Here there was an agreement to employ the plaintiff as a courier from a day subsequent to the date of the writ, and before the time for the commencement of the employment defendant had refused to perform the agreement, and had discharged the plaintiff from performing it; whereupon he had brought this action. Decided:—That a party to an agreement may, before the time for executing it, break the agreement, either by disabling himself from fulfilling it or by renouncing the contract, and that an action will lie for such breach before the time for fulfilment of the agreement.

FROST v. KNIGHT.

In this case the defendant had promised to marry the plaintiff on the death of his father; and he had afterwards, during his father's life, announced his absolute determination never to fulfil the promise.

Decided (on the authority of Hochster v. De la Tour), that the plaintiff might at once regard the contract as broken, in all its obligations and consequences, and sue thereon.

Notes on these two Cases.—The principle decided in Hochster v.

74 AN EPITOME OF LEADING COMMON LAW CASES.

De la Tour seems to be one of reason, for when a man is bound to do some act at a future day, and before that day he declares he shall not do it, and refuses to do it, there seems no reason why the cause of action should be delayed until the arrival of that future day. This principle has been recognised and acted on in the case of Frost v. Knight, given above, overruling the decision of the Court below, which will be found reported in Law Rep. 5 Ex. 322.

VALUABLE WORKS FOR LAW STUDENTS.

Now ready, in One Volume, 8vo., price 18s., cloth.

PRINCIPLES of CONVEYANCING. An Elementary Work for the Use of Students. By HENRY C. DEANE, of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law, Lecturer to the Incorporated Law Society of the United Kingdom.

"We can confidently recommend Mr. Deane's work. It seems essentially the book for young conveyancers."—Irish Law Times.

"Extremely useful to students, and especially to candidates for the various legal examinations."—Law Journal.

"The whole work is very well and thoroughly done. We can heartily recommend it as a first book on the subject of which it treats."—The Law.

Now ready, Third Edition, 8vo., price 20s., cloth.

THE PRINCIPLES of EQUITY. Intended for the Use of Students and the Profession. By EDMUND H. T. SNELL, of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law. Third Edition by JOHN R. GRIFFITH, of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law.

* * * This Work has become a Standard Class Book in England, Ireland, India, and the Colonies.

"The second edition of this treatise was noticed in this Review in October, 1872; the first edition had appeared in 1868. We are glad to see evidence of its growing popularity. As a second book in Equity we are inclined to think it is the best which has been published. Mr. Snell's treatise presents compactly, and (considering the size of the book) with remarkable comprehensiveness, the leading points on the various heads of Equity jurisdiction. Its selection of the most recent cases is very valuable for the student; and for the practitioner who desires a convenient vade mecum, this book can be safely recommended."—American Law Review, January, 1875.

"We know of no better introduction to the Principles of Equity. While affording to the student an insight to principles of which as yet he is not master, it places at the service of those familiar with the doctrines of Equity, the most recent cases establishing or qualifying well-understood principles."—Canada Law Journal.

In One thick Volume, 8vo., price 21s., cloth.

ENGLISH CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY. Designed as a Text-Book for Students and others. By T. P. TASWELL-LANGMEAD, B.C.L., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law, late Vinerian Scholar in the University of Oxford, and Tancred Student in Common Law.

* For conciseness, comprehensiveness, and clearness, we do not know of a better modern book than Mr. Taswell-Langmead's Constitutional History."—Notes and Queries.

"But we must say a few words about the book before us, and they will be words of high praise. The author has, of course, made ample use of Hallam, Stubbs, Freeman, Erskine May, and other authorities, and a text-book which did not freely use the leading authorities would be valueless. Yet we do not hesitate to describe Mr. Taswell-Langmead's book as an original, as well as a very meritorious work. It is not a mere compilation. It is the fruit of extensive and well-digested reading. As a text-book for the student this work will be invaluable, because it is very comprehensive, and yet so arranged and written that it leaves a definite impression of the history as a whole on the mind. We regard it as an exceptionally able and complete work."—Law Journal.

Now ready, in One Volume, 8vo., price 21s., cloth.

A NEW LAW DICTIONARY, and INSTITUTE of the WHOLE LAW; embracing French and Latin Terms, and References to the Authorities, Cases, and Statutes. By ARCHIBALD A. BROWN, M.A. Edin. and Oxon., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law, Author of the "Law of Fictures," "Analysis of Savigny's Obligations in Roman Law," &c.

"For the purposes of working law students nothing could be more useful, but members of the profession will also find it useful for ready reference."—The Law.

"Mr. Brown has perhaps done about as much as any one not a rare genius could do in such a case, and his Dictionary will be serviceable to those who are in want of hints and references. It is a handy book to have at one's elbow."—Saturday Review.

In One Volume, 8vo., price 20s., cloth, clearly and handsomely printed for facility of reference.

THE PRINCIPLES OF THE LAW OF RATING

HEREDITAMENTS in the OCCUPATION of COMPANIES.

By J. H. BALFOUR BROWNE,

*Of the Middle Temple and Midland Circuit, Barrister-at-Law;
Registrar to the Railway Commissioners; Author of "The Law of Carriers," "The Law of Usages and Customs," "The Medical Jurisprudence of Insanity," &c.*

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

Chap. I. Introduction—concerning Rateable Value. II. Railway Rating. III. Canal Rating. IV. The Rating of Waterworks. V. Gas Companies; the Rating of their Property and Works. VI. The Rating of Docks and Harbours. VII. The Rating of Mines and Quarries. VIII. The Rating of Bridges. IX. Cemetery Companies, the Rating of their Property. X. The Rating of Ferries and Wayleaves. XI. The Rating of Tramways. Appendix No. 1. Statutes. No. 2. The Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire Railway Case. No. 3. Valuations. A copious Index.

"The tables and specimen valuations which are printed in an appendix to this volume, will be of great service to the parish authorities, and to the legal practitioners who may have to deal with the rating of those properties which are in the occupation of Companies, and we congratulate Mr. Browne on the production of a clear and concise book of the system of Company Rating. There is no doubt that such a work is much needed, and we are sure that all those who are interested in, or have to do with public rating, will find it of great service. Much credit is therefore due to Mr. Browne for his able treatise—a work which his experience as Registrar of the Railway Commission peculiarly qualified him to undertake."—Law Magazine.

THE LAW OF USAGES and CUSTOMS:

A Practical Law Tract.

By J. H. BALFOUR BROWNE,

*Of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law;
Registrar to the Railway Commissioners; Author of "The Law of Carriers," "The Medical Jurisprudence of Insanity," &c.*

"Mr. Browne has in this work chosen for exposition an interesting and difficult branch of the law. He has discharged his duty with great ability and industry.

"We look upon this treatise as a valuable addition to works written on the Science of Law."—Canada Law Journal.

"This is a very elegantly produced volume, and is written in an extremely scientific and agreeable style.

"As a tract upon a very troublesome department of law it is admirable—the principles laid down are sound, the illustrations are well chosen, and the decisions and dicta are harmonised so far as possible, and distinguished when necessary."—Irish Law Times.

BY

SEWARD BRICE, M.A., LL.D., LONDON,

Of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

"Here is a volume of 500 pp. upon a title to which, so far as we are aware, not even a chapter of any text-book in this country has been devoted, and to which we are quite sure no distinct heading has ever been assigned in an American Digest.

Upwards of 1100 Cases are cited in this work, of which it may be fairly assumed that few do not involve pecuniary interests of considerable magnitude. In the next decade we may be sure that the doctrine of Ultra Vires as applicable to railroads, municipal and other chartered bodies in the United States, will assume a large political as well as legal importance. We welcome his pioneer volume as a fair result of the author's 'attempt, though, perhaps, nothing more,' to collect and group the more important of these various decisions. . . . This is the only work of its kind afforded the profession of either country. The English cases, many of great authority with us, are here collected and lucidly arranged. Besides the questions constantly presented to the Courts, it happens frequently that Corporation Counsel are called upon to give advice which may affect property of great value. In such an emergency this volume would be of essential service."—American Law Review, October 1874.

"Much as one may be surprised at the confusion which clouds the doctrine of Ultra Vires, it is all the more pleasant to notice the lucid manner in which it has been handled by the author. His arrangement of the work is logical, and his treatment of the parts clear and concise. The work is arranged under four main heads. Each part appears to be well and appropriately filled up. The references to decided cases are full and accurate. The result is a body of law essential as an appendix to any work on Corporations, and such as should be on the shelves of any lawyer who assumes to have a useful and reliable library of modern law."—Canada Law Journal.

"Mr. Brice writes with knowledge and with precision; and his volume is probably as good as was possible in the present stage of the law."—The Daily News.

"A guide of very great value. Much information on a difficult and unattractive subject has been collected and arranged in a manner which will be of great assistance to the seeker after the law on a point involving the powers of a company."—Law Journal.

"Mr. Brice himself calls his work an attempt to reduce a vast mass of authorities to something like order, and to deduce from them some general conclusions. To our mind it is a very creditable and courageous attempt, and really of the same class as those which started our present excellent text-books in other branches of the law. But here the author has chosen for himself a subject of great difficulty, and one in which he will find it difficult to interest the general student. The doctrine of Ultra Vires is of very modern growth, and took its rise in the attempt of our Courts to make old law fit a new state of facts by using and refining upon a maxim. The doctrine is thus, as Mr. Brice says, purely the creature of judicial decisions, and for this reason it forms a most embarrassing and awkward subject for any legal writer. In this case the author has certainly worked hard, and displayed great industry and research. He has endeavoured, and that successfully, to force his subject into some logical order, and to arrange a mass of vague decisions under different heads as clearly as was possible. He has, at all events, laid the foundation for, perhaps, a more complete and systematic text-book; which at some future time, when the Courts are themselves more logical in their decisions, will be written. He has certainly called attention to a most important branch of our law, which has hitherto been much neglected. It is a branch, also, which is daily growing in importance with the growth of Corporations and the increase of Joint Stock Companies. To investigate the principles which limit their capacity, power, and liabilities, is certainly a task worthy of the undertaking by any lawyer, more especially at the present time. We congratulate Mr. Brice on his success in so far as he has gone, and look forward to the time when some future edition of his work shall, the law itself on Ultra Vires having become more settled, be considered as one of our standard works upon its own special subject."—The Law.

"It is an exceedingly valuable work at this time when the rights and powers of Corporations are matters of so much interest in the United States, as well as in Great Britain, and its manifold cases furnish as interesting reading to the business man generally as to the lawyer or justice."—Boston (U. S.) Journal of Commerce.

ENGLISH CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY.

Designed as a Text-Book for Students and Others.

BY

T. P. TASWELL-LANGMEAD, B.C.L.,

Of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law, late Vinerian Scholar in the University of Oxford, and Tancred Student in Common Law.

Extracts from some Reviews of this Work:—

"We may therefore state shortly the opinion which we have formed, that Mr. Langmead was thoroughly qualified for the labour which he undertook, and that he has executed his work most ably and most conscientiously. For students of history we do not know any work which we could more thoroughly recommend."—Law Times.

"Mr. Taswell-Langmead's work is intended to furnish a guide to the law student. He has availed himself largely of Hallam and Sir Erskine May, and by judiciously combining the pith of those authors with that of other authorities, has, in our opinion, produced a text-book of no small value, accurate, full, yet not unwieldy, and calculated to smooth very considerably the path of the student. The execution seems to be even and careful throughout, and though the book does not profess to be more than a compilation, it is compiled from a wide range of authorities, and is written in so easy a style as to be likely to attract the general reader."—Solicitors' Journal.

"It is a safe, careful, praiseworthy digest and manual of all constitutional history and law."—Globe.

"We have here, in the compass of one goodly volume, a handy book both for the student at the Universities and Inns of Court, and for the general reader, embracing every topic of constitutional importance, from the days of the Witan to the return of John Mitchel for Tipperary. Mr. Taswell-Langmead's book has the merit of being written in clear language, which is equally adapted for students 'and others.' . . . We are glad to note that Mr. Taswell-Langmead has devoted some of his best energies to the elucidation of the three great landmarks of our constitutional history, viz., Magna Charta, the Petition of Right, and the Bill of Rights. Indeed, the analysis and summary of the provisions of the Great Charter in chapter iv., accompanied by a reprint of the original text, would alone give the book a permanent value. Each clause that requires special treatment is carefully annotated, and its salient points are ably brought out. The Petition of Right and Bill of Rights are also printed in full, with marginal analyses and footnotes. A special chapter is given to the origin of Parliament, and the political and legal aspects of the Reformation also receive separate notice, special attention being paid to the Acts passed in the Parliaments of Henry VIII. and Elizabeth. In narrating, so far as it falls within his scope, the contest between Charles I. and the Parliament, Mr. Langmead is careful to point out how far it was constitutional on either side, while summarizing for the student the results of the 'revolutionary period' (1642-1660). The last chapter is in itself a manual, covering the progress of the constitution from 1688 to 1875. For conciseness, comprehensiveness, and clearness, we do not know of a better modern book than Mr. Taswell-Langmead's 'English Constitutional History.'"—Notes and Queries.

"But we must say a few words about the book before us, and they will be words of high praise. The author has, of course, made ample use of Hallam, Stubbs, Freeman, Erskine May, and other authorities, and a text-book which did not freely use the leading authorities would be valueless. Yet we do not hesitate to describe Mr. Taswell-Langmead's book as an original, as well as a very meritorious, work. It is not a mere compilation. It is the fruit of extensive and well-digested reading. The author has an easy and lucid style, but he has not hesitated to quote from his authorities when there has been no need for condensation. He adopts the chronological method, though not without exception—as, e.g., chapter vii., which is an excellent account of the ‘Origin of Parliament.’ As a text-book for the student this work will be invaluable, because it is very comprehensive, and yet so arranged and written that it leaves a definite impression of the history, as a whole, on the mind. For young men, and we will add for women who have not the time and opportunity for reading constitutional history, this work is especially adapted. As a text-book for students, we regard it as an exceptionally able and complete work.”—Law Journal.

ENGLISH CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY.

“Mr. Taswell-Langmead has endeavoured in the present volume to bring together all the most prominent features in the Constitutional History of England, and explain their origin and development. The method employed, however, is discursive, and more after the fashion of Macaulay or Hume than of Hallam—a characteristic which vastly increases its utility and attractiveness to the general reader, who studies only for general information. . . . In his treatment of the Anglo-Saxon polity, and the ante-Norman period generally, Mr. Taswell-Langmead has been particularly happy, and has contrived to give an exact and scientific account of the ancient institutions then prevalent, which, by a legitimate figure of speech, may be considered the prototypes of our present system, into which they are, indeed, believed to have developed. The three great charters of English liberties are set out at length, and discussed most completely; while the general features of the rise of Parliamentary freedom and the liberties of the press are also discussed. The Norman and Angevin periods are shortly discussed, while the Tudor and Stewart reigns are treated fully, and the general impression left on our mind, after reading the book carefully, is, that it was written for general readers, as it will undoubtedly convey to them an amount of information for which they would otherwise have to go to several voluminous authors, such as Hallam, Macaulay, Freeman, Stubbs, and May. Indeed, in the earlier part of the work, the acknowledgments to these gentlemen are very numerous. We should also say that the latter portion of his work contains an admirable account of the action of parties in the State since the Revolution, untinted, however, by partisanship, and that it is possible to gain from a hundred pages of Mr. Langmead’s work a knowledge of the growth and progress of the present system, which elsewhere could only be obtained in many volumes.”—Irish Law Times.

“Under the title of ‘English Constitutional History: a text-book for students and others,’ Mr. Taswell-Langmead has produced a very useful volume, in which he has brought together the results of the labours of Hallam, Professor Stubbs, Mr. Freeman, Sir Erskine May, and other high authorities. The work forms a valuable introduction to the more systematic study of the subject with which it deals, and its simple style, clear arrangement, and, we must add, copious index, adapt it for convenient and rapid reference.”—Daily News.

“Every one who takes a real interest in the history of the past and of the present—the true and living scion of that past—will gladly welcome the publication of such manuals as Mr. Taswell-Langmead’s, which, at reasonable length and in readable form and language, will do much to make popularly known the origin and the growth of our institutions, and the reasons for their continued existence or moderate and harmonious reform. Such manuals when compiled with the conscientious carefulness here manifested on every page, are not only useful to the large and growing class of students, but are handy summaries of history which no library can do without. . . . The plan of this compendium appears to have been well considered—an element often miserably disregarded—and the materials which the author has chosen to form the solid texture of his work have been judiciously selected. Nothing can be better than the use of Professor Stubbs’ admirable volumes, Dr. Freeman’s ‘Norman Conquest,’ and Lappenberg’s ‘England under the Anglo-Saxons,’ for the groundwork of the earlier chapters. . . . The ample commentary on Magna Charta, to which the whole of a long chapter is devoted, is both useful and interesting, and the author has wisely given in the notes the whole of the original text of this celebrated ‘landmark in Constitutional History.’ . . . Mr. Taswell-Langmead has thoroughly grasped the bearings of his subject. It is, however, in dealing with that chief subject of constitutional history—parliamentary government—that the work exhibits its great superiority over its rivals.”—Academy.

INJUNCTIONS, ADVERTISEMENTS, AND OTHER ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS OF LEGAL AUTHORITY.

By SEWARD BRICE, LL.D.,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"To the vast number of people who in various ways are interested in the working of the Act, Mr. Brice's volume cannot fail to be welcome. It is well conceived and carefully executed."—THE TIMES.

"Dr. Brice avoids any discussion as to doctrine, and he confines his attention to 'the external forms and cultus enforced or merely permissible by the rules of the Church of England.' He divides his treatise into three parts, the third part being the statutes and other authoritative enactments relating to public worship; and this makes the work of greater value, because those who have not books on ecclesiastical law have in this volume the law, as well as an elaborate exposition thereof. The first part of the treatise is on 'Substantive Law.' To show the way in which the author deals with his subject, we remark that Chapter II., on 'General Matters Relating to the Conduct of Public Worship,' deals with the place for holding public worship; consecration and re-consecration; place of the person conducting public worship; times of holding public worship; person by whom public worship is to be conducted; chaplain; and general conduct of public worship. In this chapter we have a definition of a church, and of the six kinds of chapels, and also a very complete though brief account of the circumstances under which re-consecration is necessary. In Chapter III. there is an account of the first Prayer Book, the second Prayer Book, and the Prayer Book of 1559. We have not space to give even a brief summary of the contents of this volume; and, therefore, it must suffice to say that, having in ten chapters, which fill nearly half the book—though that on the practice of the laity with regard to the conduct of public worship only occupies five pages—set forth the law, the second part deals with the means for securing the due holding and conduct of public worship.

"We can confidently recommend the treatise to all those who are concerned in the subject. To students it will be useful as a compendium of ecclesiastical law. To lawyers it will be a handy book of reference. To clergymen and parishioners it will be a valuable guide, and may perhaps prevent some useless litigation. An index of twenty-two pages, and a table of upwards of 300 cases, testify to the labour bestowed upon this treatise; but it is not a mere compilation, and only an author who has thoroughly mastered the subject could have written the book."—Law Journal.

"The purpose of Mr. Seward Brice's treatise on 'The Law Relating to Public Worship' is, as stated in the preface, to give 'a full exposition of the Law of Public Worship, in so far as it concerns the external forms and cultus enforced or merely permissible by the rules of the Church of England,' special prominence being assigned to the subjects of ornaments, ceremonial, and vestments. The work is very carefully and thoroughly done, and includes not only a clear account both of the substantive law and of the means of enforcing it, but the text of the pertinent statutes and of other documents bearing upon the matters discussed."—Daily News.

THE LAW AND PRACTICE IN BANKRUPTCY;

Comprising the Bankruptcy Act, 1869; the Debtors Act, 1869; the Insolvent Debtors and Bankruptcy Repeal Act, 1869; together with the General Rules and Orders in Bankruptcy, at Common Law and in the County Courts;

With the Practice on Procedure to Adjudication, Procedure to Liquidation, Procedure to Composition, and Procedure under Debtors' Summons, Scales of Costs and of Allowance to Witnesses.

Copious Notes, References, and a very full Index. Second Edition. By HENRY PHILIP ROCHE and WILLIAM HAZLITT, Barristers-at-Law, and Registrars of the Court of Bankruptcy.

From THE LAW.

"The aim of the authors in writing this book has been to make it useful to the profession, and in this they have eminently succeeded. Bringing to their task a long and varied experience of Bankruptcy laws, they have been able, from their position as Registrars of the Court, also to acquire more knowledge of the practical working of the new Act than could well have been obtained by any other writer, however gifted and industrious. The last statute, which by itself looked so simple, has, from the number and complexity of the rules framed thereunder, probably surpassed all its predecessors in accumulating a mass of forms and ceremonies. Therefore it is that a book like the above becomes absolutely necessary, more especially to solicitors who have but a small practice in Bankruptcy. The portion of the work which to such will be found most useful, is that on the practical procedure; where they will find plain and minute directions as to setting about the commencement of a Bankruptcy or Liquidation, and also as to its continuance and conclusion. There is also a special and carefully written chapter on Costs. There are included in the work all the statutes, rules, forms, and scales of costs, which can be wanted in a Bankruptcy case; while the Index is a book of itself, and seems unusually complete. The type and binding could not well be better. Altogether we can say of this book that it is the product of hard work, by men who know of what they write, and that it is worthy to stand beside our best text-books on the shelves of every lawyer."

From the LAW TIMES.

"This work is one which has naturally carried with it more weight than any other text-book, having been written by two registrars of the Court of Bankruptcy. In practice it has been found to realise the anticipations formed concerning it, in proof of which we have now in our hands a second edition. Perhaps the most valuable feature of the work is the fulness of the practical details which enable a tyro to transact his business with tolerable security. The first half of the work comprises the Bankruptcy Act and the Debtors Act, which have been carefully and ably noted with all the decisions; and the latter half is devoted mainly to practice and procedure. The Bills of Sale Act and one or two other enactments are incorporated which are frequently consulted by the bankruptcy practitioner. A very elaborate index ends the volume."

From the LAW JOURNAL.

"The work before us also contains the Debtors Act of 1869, the Bankruptcy Repeal Act of 1869, the Absconding Debtors Act, 1869, with several other Acts and all the General Rules in Bankruptcy, printed and annotated in the same manner as the principal Act. There is also a very full collection of forms and bills of costs; but the portion of the work which is decidedly the most novel, and we imagine will prove extremely useful, is that comprised in pages 355-474, which contain an exposition by the authors on the practice on procedure to adjudication, liquidation, and composition with creditors, and on procedure under a debtors' summons. It is not often that a practising lawyer is able to turn to a book on Practice written by the judges of the particular Court to which it relates, and, as it were, stamped with the seal of authority. . . . In conclusion, we have only to say that Messrs. Roche and Hazlitt have appended to their work a very full and copious index, and that we can cordially and conscientiously recommend it to the notice of the legal profession."

From the SOLICITORS' JOURNAL.

"In the book before us, a reader is enabled by means of large consecutive figures at the head of each margin to reach the section and cases he requires without the trouble of referring to the index. In the hurry of daily practice this will probably be found no small advantage. In the subsequent chapters on adjudication, liquidation, composition, and debtors' summons, the arrangement adopted is the convenient one for practical purposes of tracing each consecutive step of the procedure, and welding together the provisions of the Acts, Rules, and Forms, with the substance of the cases. This appears to us to be successfully accomplished, and the book, as a whole, constitutes a useful digest of the statutory and case law. As regards the former, the work appears to contain every provision relating to or connected with the subject, including even the orders made in December, 1869, transferring business then pending. The cases are taken from a wide range of reports and include a considerable number cited from MSS. notes. The index is unusually full, combining both an analysis and index; and, lastly, the type and paper are all that can be desired."

THE PRINCIPLES OF EQUITY.

Intended for the Use of Students and the Profession.

By EDMUND H. T. SNELL,

OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

THIRD EDITION.

By JOHN R. GRIFFITH, of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law.

In One Vol., 8vo., 1874.

* * This Work has become a Standard Class-Book in England, Ireland, India, and the Colonies.

"The second edition of this Treatise was noticed in this Review in October, 1872; the first edition had appeared in 1868. We are glad to see evidence of its growing popularity. As a second book in equity we are inclined to think it is the best which has been published. Mr. Snell's Treatise presents compactly, and (considering the size of the book) with remarkable comprehensiveness, the leading points on the various heads of Equity jurisdiction. Its selection of the most recent Cases is very valuable for the student and for the practitioner who desires a convenient vade-mecum, this book can be safely recommended."—American Law Review, January, 1875.

CANADA LAW JOURNAL.

"Equity can never be made easy, nor is it desirable that it should be so; but in the fact of the large equitable jurisdiction conferred recently—that is, since 1853—upon Common Law Courts, and the extension of equitable principles and rules, to the exclusion of Common Law, contemplated by the Judicature Bill, it behoves every practitioner to know as much as possible of equity with as little expense of time as possible, and for this purpose we know of no better work than Mr. Snell's. It presents in a small compass the substance of 'The Leading Cases,' and of Story's work on 'Equity Jurisprudence;' while students will be delighted to find clear, logical, and intelligible explanations of its most mysterious process and development. The work professes to be based on the lectures of Mr. Birkbeck, but it has now reached its third edition in a few years, and is admirably noted up with the latest decisions and enactments. We find particularly good information concerning the equitable and statutable rights of married women, and the priorities of equitable and legal, registered and unregistered, mortgages. Counsel, attorney, and student, will find it a useful, and especially a safe guide in what it professes to teach."—Irish Law Times.

"The great merit of the book now under consideration is its scientific arrangement and accuracy. It, therefore, becomes a most excellent guide to these Common Lawyers who have somehow acquired the notion that Equity is a vague term for a sort of natural justice, and that it recognises no rules such as are found in the Common Law. This book is indeed a most praiseworthy and successful attempt to reduce Equity Jurisprudence to a science, and as such deserves every commendation that can be bestowed; for by doing so it makes one more step towards that complete codification of our law which should be the aim and the desire of every true lawyer. To the ordinary student of Equity it is indeed unnecessary for us to say one word in its praise and recommendation. But as every Common Lawyer must before long add to his knowledge some idea of equitable doctrine, it is to them especially that we commend this book. They will find in it the principles of Equity set out and illustrated in a really scientific and, we may say, workmanlike way, and for this reason they will recognise in its method the style of thought and manner to which they have long been accustomed."—The Law.

"We have received the third edition of Snell's Equity, by Mr. J. R. Griffith. The statute and case law has been brought down to the time of publication, and this admirable standard work may therefore be used without any more assistance than is afforded by the current reports."—Law Times.

PRINCIPLES OF CONVEYANCING.

AN ELEMENTARY WORK FOR THE USE OF STUDENTS.

By HENRY C. DEANE, of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law, Lecturer to the Incorporated Law Society of the United Kingdom.

"Mr. Deane is one of the Lecturers of the Incorporated Law Society, and in his elementary work intended for the use of students, he embodies some lectures given at the hall of that society. It would weary our readers to take them over the ground necessarily covered by Mr. Deane. The first part is devoted to Corporeal Hereditaments, and the second to Conveyancing. The latter is prefaced by a very interesting "History of Conveyancing," and for practical purposes the chapter (Ch. 2, Part II.) on Conditions of Sale is decidedly valuable. The most recent legislation is handled by Mr. Deane in connexion with the old law, the Judicature Act and the Vendor and Purchaser Act both being considered in this chapter on Conditions of Sale. We might make some interesting quotations, but the work is one which those engaged in conveyancing should purchase and put on their shelves, and welcome it with the recommendations which we have already recorded."—Law Times.

"We hope to see this book, like Snell's Equity, a standard class-book in all Law Schools where English law is taught."—CANADA LAW JOURNAL.

"This is, as its author states, a purely elementary work. It may indeed be called the A B C of conveyancing. In the clearest and simplest language the student will find an outline, firstly, of the various forms of ownership in land, and, secondly, of the ordinary modes of conveyances used in transferring such land from one person to another. The second portion is founded upon lectures that were delivered by the author at the Incorporated Law Society, and is accordingly very clear and practical. The whole work is very well and thoroughly done. Mr. Deane has, we believe, succeeded in writing the very simplest work ever published on the abstruse subject of conveyancing; and has by his language and illustrations, explained points of law in a way that cannot be misunderstood. For this reason, and as being the most elementary work combining the elements of real property law with the principles of practical conveyancing, we can heartily recommend it as a first book on the subject of which it treats. As such we should think it would be both worthy and suitable to be named as one of the books that are required to be read as a preparation for the various Law Examinations."—The Law.

"We can confidently recommend Mr. Deane's work on the 'Principles of Conveyancing.' It is not exhaustive, and does not pretend to go fully into the laws of trusts, powers, or remainders, but it fully explains the several different legal and equitable estates in land and the tenure of land, and the modes of alienation used in conveyances inter vivos and by will. It also fully explains the meaning and value of the several parts of the conveyances, the covenants, conditions, provisoes, exceptions and reservations, habendums, and the proper form of recitals, &c., &c.—a point frequently neglected in other and more pretentious treatises. It contains excellent chapters on purchase deeds, leases, mortgages, settlements, and wills; and, in addition, Mr. Deane treats of conditions of sale most fully and clearly. It seems essentially the book for young conveyancers, and will, probably, in many cases supplant Williams. It is, in fact, a modern adaptation of Mr. Watkin's book on conveyancing, and is fully equal to its prototype."—Irish Law Times.

"A general review of the scope of Mr. Deane's volume and a perusal of several of its chapters have brought us to the conclusion that, though its contents are purely elementary, and it contains nothing which is not familiar to the practitioner, it may be extremely useful to students, and especially to those gentlemen who are candidates for the various legal examinations. There are so many questions set now on case law that they would do well to peruse this treatise of Mr. Deane's, and use it in conjunction with a book of questions and answers. They will find a considerable amount of equity case law, especially in the second part of Mr. Deane's book, which comprises in substance some lectures delivered by the author at the Law Institution."—Law Journal.

"As Mr. Deane's work is addressed to the rising generation of conveyancers, 'students entering upon the difficulties of real property law,' it may be presumed that he does not fear the immediate annihilation of that noble science in its traditional forms by any legislative changes. The first part of the volume is composed of a series of chapters on corporeal hereditaments, and the second part of some lectures on conveyancing recently delivered by the author at the Law Institution. It is enough to say that Mr. Deane writes clearly and to the point."—Saturday Review.

A NEW LAW DICTIONARY,

Institute of the whole Law ;

EMBRACING FRENCH AND LATIN TERMS, AND REFERENCES
TO THE AUTHORITIES, CASES, AND STATUTES.

BY ARCHIBALD BROWN,

M.A. Edin. and Oxon, and B.C.L. Oxon, of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law, Author of the "Law of Fixtures," "Analysis of Savigny's Obligations in Roman Law," &c.

"Mr. Brown has succeeded in the first essential, that of brevity. He has compressed into a wonderfully small compass a great deal of matter. Our impression is that the work has been carefully executed."—SOLICITORS' JOURNAL.

"For the purposes of working law students nothing could be more useful. Besides explaining every legal term, new and old, the author gives short notes upon points of law, which are excellent specimens of clear and compressed writing. References to cases and statutes are abundant, as also to the best text writers on each subject. As an example of Mr. Brown's resolute endeavour to reduce even the vaguest and widest portions of our law to some clear first principles, we may refer readers to the title 'Fraud,' where they will find nine columns of compressed learning scientifically arranged. French and Roman law terms and doctrines are also carefully explained, while even the growth and character of the British Constitution are shortly but clearly set out under their proper headings. As already stated, the book is, for students, invaluable; but members of the profession will also find it useful for ready reference; and certainly the public could find a great deal of curious information in its pages. The style and execution are worthy of the great subject chosen, and more than this cannot be said in its favour. The printing is excellent for the purpose of finding any point that is sought; the general get-up of the book could not be better."—The Law.

"In a modest preface Mr. Brown introduces us to a rather ambitious work. He has endeavoured to compress into less than four hundred pages the whole law of England, and has evidently bestowed much pains on the execution of the task. He does not, however, aim at anything higher than rendering a service to students preparing for the Bar or for the lower branch of the profession, and there can be no doubt that he has produced a book of reference which will be useful to the class he has had in view. The conditions which are imposed by the very nature of such a work necessarily limit the possibility of making it altogether satisfactory. If it goes thoroughly into the rules and principles of every branch of law, it becomes too bulky to answer the purpose for which it is composed; and, on the other hand, there is the danger of sacrificing completeness to compression. Mr. Brown has perhaps done about as much as any one, not a rare genius, could do in such a case, and his Dictionary will be serviceable to those who are in want of hints and references, and are content with a general idea of a law or legal principle. It is a handy book to have at one's elbow."—Saturday Review.

"This book has now been for some time published, and we have had many opportunities of referring to it. We find it an admirable Law Dictionary, and something more, inasmuch as it contains elaborate historical and antiquarian analyses of our legal system under the several headings. The student and the literary man will find the book very useful in reading and writing. Indeed the people who are not lawyers, but who nevertheless feel a desire or are under a necessity to use legal terms, or who meet them in their course of study, cannot do better than obtain a copy of this work and use it judiciously; they will thereby be enabled to avoid the ludicrous errors into which novelists in particular, and public speakers too, are often led by the inappropriate use of terms whose meanings they do not perfectly comprehend."—IRISH LAW TIMES.

"The special excellence of the present over all previous editions will be found in the etymological department."—John Bull.

"Though nominally based on Johnson's Dictionary, so much of the original text is discarded as imperfect or erroneous, and the additions in every Second Edition. In 8vo., 1874, price 5s., cloth,

AN EPITOME OF LEADING COMMON LAW CASES;

WITH SOME SHORT NOTES THEREON.

Chiefly intended as a Guide to "SMITH'S LEADING CASES." By JOHN INDERMAUR, Solicitor (Clifford's Inn Prizeman, Michaelmas Term, 1872).

"This should be placed in the 'handy-volume series of law books. Its title expresses its object—that of an Epitome and Guide to Leading Cases. The Cases themselves are stated with admirable brevity and clearness, and the notes turn out to be more full and instructive than their material size would seem to indicate. The type and binding are excellent, and in several respects this is an improvement on the first edition."—American Law Review.

"At the end of thirteen months from the publication of the little volume the demand has justified a second edition. Last year we suggested that the compiler of the book knew the value of skilful 'cram' in the law examinations; and the call for a second edition plainly shows that our suspicion was correct. One case has been added, and also references to the original reports of the several cases; otherwise, the book is a mere reprint, and a glance at it with a knowledge of its popularity affords an exact view of the art of examination as used in the 'Final.'"—The Law Journal.

By ALFRED HANSON, Esq., Comptroller of Legacy and Succession Duties.

"It is the only complete book upon a subject of great importance, but which does not come within the regular course of professional study, and therefore requires to be read up when a case having reference to it comes into the solicitor's office.

"Mr. Hanson is peculiarly qualified to be the adviser at such a time. Hence, a volume without a rival."—Law Times.

"Since Mr. Hanson produced his first edition he has been appointed Comptroller of Legacy and Succession Duties. His book is in itself a most useful one ; its author knows every in and out of the subject, and has presented the whole in a form easily and readily handled, and with good arrangement and clear exposition."—Solicitors' Journal.

THE LAW AND PRACTICE OF INJUNCTIONS.

EMBRACING ALL THE SUBJECTS IN WHICH

COURTS OF EQUITY AND COMMON LAW

HAVE JURISDICTION.

BY WILLIAM JOYCE,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

REVIEWS.

"A work which aims at being so absolutely complete, as that of Mr. Joyce upon a subject which is of almost perpetual recurrence in the Courts, cannot fail to be a welcome offering to the profession; and, doubtless, it will be well received and largely used, for it is as absolutely complete as it aims at being. . . . This work is, therefore, eminently a work for the practitioner, being full of practical utility in every page, and every sentence, of it. . . . We have to congratulate the profession on this new acquisition to a digest of the law, and the author on his production of a work of permanent utility and—fame."—Law Magazine and Review.

"Mr. Joyce has produced not a treatise but a complete and compendious exposition of the Law and Practice of Injunctions both in equity and common law.

"Part III. is devoted to the practice of the Courts. Contains an amount of valuable and technical matter nowhere else collected.

"Mr. Joyce's work, within the limits which he has assigned himself, is well done. He has been evidently diligent in the collection of cases, and the points decided are stated with accuracy, and with more fulness of detail than in any work on injunctions with which we are familiar. It cannot fail to be useful in instructing practitioners in the proper employment of this much abused method of procedure."—American Law Review.

"Mr. Joyce has produced a clear, scientific, and thorough treatise upon the subject of injunctions which, unlike most English works, will be nearly as useful to the American as to the English practitioner.

"We doubt if there can be a single case of any note found upon injunctions in the English law that is not cited in these volumes."—Chicago Legal News.

"This work, considered either as to its matter or manner of execution, is no ordinary work. It is a complete and exhaustive treatise both as to the law and the practice of granting injunctions. It must supersede all other works on the subject. The terse statement of the practice will be found of incalculable value. We know of no book as suitable to supply a knowledge of the law of injunctions to our common law friends as Mr. Joyce's exhaustive work. It is alike indispensable to members of the Common Law and Equity Bars. Mr. Joyce's great work would be a casket without a key unless accompanied by a good index. His index is very full and well arranged. We feel that this work is destined to take its place as a standard text-book, and the text-book on the particular subject of which it treats. The author deserves great credit for the very great labour bestowed upon it. The publishers, as usual, have acquitted themselves in a manner deserving of the high reputation they bear."—Canada Law Journal.

"From these remarks it will be sufficiently perceived what elaborate and painstaking industry, as well as legal knowledge and ability, has been necessary in the compilation of Mr. Joyce's work. No labour has been spared to save the practitioner labour, and no research has been omitted which could tend towards the elucidation and exemplification of the general principles of the Law and Practice of Injunctions."—Law Journal.

"He does not attempt to go an inch beyond that for which he has express written authority; he allows the cases to speak, and does not speak for them.

"The work is something more than a treatise on the Law of Injunctions. It gives us the general law on almost every subject to which the process of injunction is applicable. Not only English, but American decisions are cited, the aggregate number being 3,500, and the statutes cited 160, whilst the index is, we think, the most elaborate we have ever seen—occupying nearly 200 pages. The work is probably entirely exhaustive."—Law Times.

CASES AND OPINIONS ON CONSTITUTIONAL LAW,

AND VARIOUS POINTS OF ENGLISH JURISPRUDENCE.

Collected and Digested from Official Documents and other Sources;

WITH NOTES.

By WILLIAM FORSYTH, M.A., Q.C.,

Standing Counsel to the Secretary of State in Council of India,

Author of "Hortensius," "History of Trial by Jury," "Life of Cicero," etc., late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge.

From the CONTEMPORARY REVIEW.

"We cannot but regard with interest a book which, within moderate compass, presents us with the opinions or responsa of such lawyers and statesmen as Somers, Holt, Hardwicke, Mansfield, and, to come down to our own day, Lyndhurst, Abinger, Denman, Cranworth, Campbell, St. Leonards, Westbury, Chelmsford, Cockburn, Cairns, and the present Lord Chancellor Hatherley. At the end of each chapter of the 'Cases and Opinions,' Mr. Forsyth has added notes of his own, containing a most excellent summary of all the law bearing on that branch of his subject to which the 'Opinions' refer. . . . Our space precludes us from dwelling upon the contents of this work at any greater length, but we think we have said enough to show that it is worthy of a place on the book-shelves of our statesmen, and all who take an interest in constitutional, or rather, national and colonial questions."

From the LAW MAGAZINE and LAW REVIEW.

"Mr. Forsyth has largely and beneficially added to our legal stores. His work may be regarded as in some sense a continuation of 'Chalmers's Opinions of Eminent Lawyers.' . . . The constitutional relations between England and her colonies are becoming every day of more importance. The work of Mr. Forsyth will do more to make these relations perfectly clear than any which has yet appeared. Henceforth it will be the standard work of reference in a variety of questions which are constantly presenting themselves for solution both here and in our colonies. . . . Questions of colonial law by no means occupy an exclusive share of the volume. . . . Among other questions on which 'opinions' are given, and of which careful summaries and generalisations have been added by Mr. Forsyth, are those relating to vice-admiralty jurisdiction and piracy; the prerogatives of the Crown in relation to treasure trove, land in the colonies, mines, cession of territory, &c.; the power of courts-martial, extra-territorial jurisdiction, allegiance, the lex loci and the lex fori, extradition, and appeals from the colonies. The volume bears marks of extreme care and regard to accuracy, and is in every respect a valuable contribution to constitutional law."

From the CANADA LAW JOURNAL.

"Mr. Forsyth at the present juncture has done good service not only to his profession, but to all men who take any interest in public affairs, and we therefore hope that those for whom the book is especially intended will not be backward in giving to it that support which the industry and ability of its author, and the public spirit and enterprise of its publishers, so well deserve."

From the LAW TIMES.

"This one volume of 560 pages or thereabouts is a perfect storehouse of law not readily to be found elsewhere, and the more useful because it is not abstract law, but the application of principles to particular cases. Mr. Forsyth's plan is that of classification. He collects in separate chapters a variety of opinions bearing upon separate branches of the law. Thus, the first chapter is devoted to cases on the common law, and the law applicable to the colonies; the second to the ecclesiastical law relating to the colonies; the third to the powers and duties, civil and criminal liabilities, of governors of colonies; the next to vice-admiralty jurisdiction and piracy; the fifth to certain prerogatives of the Crown: such as lands in the colonies, grants, escheats, mines, treasure trove, royal fish, felon's goods, writ ne exeat regno, proclamation, cession of territory, and creation of courts of justice; the sixth chapter contains opinions on martial law and courts-martial; the seventh on extra-territorial jurisdiction; the eighth on the lex loci and lex fori; the ninth on allegiance and aliens; and then successively on extradition; on appeals from the colonies; on the revocation of charters; on the Channel Islands; on the nationality of a ship, and other matters relating to ships; on the power of the Crown to grant exclusive rights of trade; on writs of habeas corpus; on certain points relating to the criminal law; and lastly, on miscellaneous subjects, such as the declaration of war before hostilities; on the right of war, booty and prize, and on the grant of a marriage licence. . . . This is a book to be read, and therefore we recommend it not to all lawyers only, but to every law student. The editor's own notes are not the least valuable portion of the volume."

By EYRE LLOYD,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

REVIEW OF SECOND EDITION.

"Few branches of the law lying within so small a compass affect so many and such important interests as that which gives compensation for lands compulsorily taken for the purpose of public improvement, or private enterprise for a public benefit, and for injuries done to other private properties by the construction of the necessary works. The cases decided upon the questions that arise for solution in the application of this law are very numerous, and many of them very difficult; and a collection of them well arranged, with the principles they determine clearly stated appended to the statute, could not fail to be cordially welcomed by all concerned in properties they affected, whether lawyers or land valuers. It is not therefore surprising that Mr. Lloyd's admirable treatise, exhaustive as it is, should have passed so rapidly into a second edition. But short as is the time since it made its first appearance, it has sufficed to produce quite a crop of new decisions, all of which have been carefully noted up. The volume contains also a valuable collection of practical precedents."—Law Times.

THE RULE OF THE LAW OF FIXTURES.

Third Edition,

Embracing the legislation of 1875, incorporating the principal American Decisions, and generally bringing the law down to the present time.

By ARCHIBALD BROWN, M.A. Edin. and Oxon. and B.C.L. Oxon.,

OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"We can recommend the book to the practitioner, because it is an intelligent construction, and not a mere string of head-notes. It will be a useful book, and is well got up and printed in a large clear type."—SOLICITORS' JOURNAL.

"It is a good and very sensible and readable book to the practical and common sense English and American lawyer. It takes up a difficult subject, begins at the very beginning, tracing the decisions in the order of time, and showing how they gradually extended a principle here, then another there, until finally a system is built up, somewhat incoherent, but good enough for all practical purposes, and enabling the lawyer, to use our author's words, 'to advise upon Modern Cases.' We have read it with much zest, and greatly admire it. . . . We can recommend it as being an exhaustive compilation."—The Southern Law Review.

"Great industry has been spent in reconciling the numerous decisions on a very difficult branch of law, and even in illustrating it by references to American cases. . . . In one respect Mr. Brown seems admirably adapted to the task of writing on the law of fixtures. He is strongly convinced of the influence of history upon law. In his opening sentence he tells us that 'it has been said of history that it finds its entablature in law; it may conversely be said of law that it finds its explanation in history.' The sentence is a good opening upon a subject which owes so much of its law to arbitrary rules rather than general principles as fixtures. . . . Mr. Brown's seventh and last chapter will be found to contain a most serviceable enumeration of the recent cases, arranged according as the conflict was between landlord and tenant, mortgagor and mortgagee, and so on."—Law Journal.

THE LAW OF RAILWAY COMPANIES.

Comprising the Companies Clauses, the Lands Clauses, the Railways Clauses Consolidation Acts, the Railway Companies Act, 1867, and the Regulation of Railways Act, 1868; with Notes of Cases on all the Sections, brought down to the end of the year 1868; together with an Appendix giving all the other material Acts relating to Railways, and the Standing Orders of the Houses of Lords and Commons; and a copious Index. By HENRY GODEFROI, of Lincoln's Inn, and JOHN SHORTT, of the Middle Temple, Barristers-at-Law.

"The title of this book is the best possible explanation of its contents. Here we have all the statutes affecting Railway Companies, with the standing orders of Parliament, in a volume exquisitely printed, and of most convenient size and form. We have also, what in effect to the practitioner is a complete manual of reference of all the decided cases on Railway Law, together with an index of so copious and accurate a nature, as to render the discovery of every section and every authority easy in the highest degree. . . . We find pages of authorities on 'transfer of shares,' 'calls,' 'forfeiture of shares,' 'sci. fa.,' 'Lloyd's bonds,' 'contracts by companies,' and 'dividends.' Then comes a mass of matter relating to the voluntary and compulsory acquisition of lands by Railway Companies, while the 'compensation' cases stretch over some fifty pages. So also under the third statute, there are a dozen pages on the powers and duties of Railway Companies in the construction of their works, while the liability of the Companies as carriers of passengers and goods is also elucidated in the most elaborate style. The 'Rating of Railways' adds several pages of authorities. . . . We believe that we have said enough to show that this book will prove to be of pre-eminent value to practitioners, both before Parliamentary committees and in the Courts of Law and Equity."—Law Journal.

THE LAW OF SALVAGE,

As administered in the High Court of Admiralty and the County Courts; with the Principal Authorities, English and American, brought down to the present time; and an Appendix, containing Statutes, Forms, Table of Fees, etc. By EDWYN JONES, of Gray's Inn, Barrister-at-Law.

"This book will be of infinite service to lawyers practising in the maritime law courts and to those engaged in shipping. In short, Mr. Jones's book is a complete guide, and is full of information upon all phases of the subject, tersely and clearly written. It will be quite as useful to, as it is as much needed by, the American lawyer as the English, because the salvage laws of America and England are much alike, and Mr. Jones makes constant reference to American authorities: The book is all the more welcome because the subject upon which it treats is but little understood except by a favoured few. Now, however, if interested people remain ignorant it is their own fault. Mr. Jones has treated a very complicated and difficult subject in a simple and concise manner, and his success is commensurate with his simplicity of style."—Liverpool Journal of Commerce.

"An admirable treatise on an important branch of jurisprudence is compiled by Mr. Edwyn Jones, of Gray's Inn, Barrister-at-Law, who, in a compact volume, gives us a very comprehensive statement of 'The Law of Salvage,' as administered in the High Court of Admiralty and the County Courts; with the principal authorities, English and American, brought down to the present time, and an Appendix containing statutes, forms, tables of fees, &c. Mr. Jones has consulted a wide range of cases, and systematised with much skill and clearness the leading principles deducible from numerous judgments and precedents, both here and in the United States. His work is likely to become a text-book on the law in question."—Daily News.

A TREATISE ON THE STATUTES OF ELIZABETH AGAINST FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCES,

The Bills of Sale Registration Acts, and the Law of Voluntary Dispositions of Property generally.

By H. W. MAY, B.A. (Ch. Ch. Oxford), and of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law.

"This treatise has not been published before it was wanted. The statutes of Elizabeth against fraudulent conveyances have now been in force for more than three hundred years. The decisions under them are legion in number, and not at all times consistent with each other. An attempt to reduce the mass of decisions into something like shape, and the exposition of legal principles involved in the decisions, under any circumstances, must have been a work of great labour, and we are pleased to observe that in the book before us there has been a combination of unusual labour with considerable professional skill. . . . We cannot conclude our notice of this work without saying that it reflects great credit on the publishers as well as the author. The facilities afforded by Messrs. Stevens and Haynes for the publication of treatises by rising men in our profession are deserving of all praise. We feel assured that they do not lightly lend their aid to works presented for publication, and that in consequence publication by such a firm is to some extent a guarantee of the value of the work published."—Canada Law Journal.

"Examining Mr. May's book, we find it constructed with an intelligence and precision which render it entirely worthy of being accepted as a guide in this confessedly difficult subject. The subject is an involved one, but with clean and clear handling it is here presented as clearly as it could be. . . . On the whole, he has produced a very useful book of an exceptionally scientific character."—Solicitors' Journal.

"The subject and the work are both very good. The former is well chosen, new, and interesting; the latter has the quality which always distinguishes original research from borrowed labours."—American Law Review.

"We are happy to welcome his (Mr. May's) work as an addition to the, we regret to say, brief catalogue of law books conscientiously executed. We can corroborate his own description of his labours, 'that no pains have been spared to make the book as concise and practical as possible, without doing so at the expense of perspicuity, or by the omission of any important points.'"—Law Times.

THE LAW RELATING TO SHIPMASTERS AND SEAMEN.

REVIEWS OF THE WORK.

From the NAUTICAL MAGAZINE, July, 1874.

"The law-books of the present day are mostly of two classes: the one written for lawyers, and only to be understood by them; the other intended for the use of non-professional readers, and generally in the form of handy books. The first, in the majority of cases, is of some benefit, if looked upon merely as a compilation containing the most recent decisions on the subject; whilst the second only aims, and not always with success, at popularising some particular branch of legal knowledge by the avoidance of technical phraseology.

"It is rarely that we find a book fulfilling the requirements of both classes; full and precise enough for the lawyer, and at the same time intelligible to the non-legal understanding. Yet the two volumes by Mr. Kay on the law relating to ship-masters and seamen will, we venture to say, be of equal service to the captain, the lawyer, and the Consul, in their respective capacities, and even of interest to the public generally, written as it is in a clear and interesting style, and treating of a subject of such vast importance as the rights and liabilities and relative duties of all, passengers included, who venture upon the ocean; more than that, we think that any able-seaman might read that chapter on the crew with the certainty of acquiring a clearer notion of his own position on board ship.

"Taking the whole British Empire, the tonnage of sailing and steam vessels registered in the year 1873 was, we learn in the preface, no less than 7,294,230, the number of vessels being 36,825, with crews estimated, inclusive of masters, at 330,849; but the growth of our mercantile fleet to such gigantic proportions is scarcely attributable to any peculiar attention on the part of the Legislature to its safety and welfare, for, as Mr. Kay justly says, 'it is remarkable that in England, the greatest maritime State the world has ever seen, no proper precautions were taken before the year 1850 to protect the public from the appointment of ignorant and untrustworthy men to these important posts'—the command of vessels, 'in which property and life are committed to them under circumstances which necessarily confer almost absolute power and at the same time preclude for long periods the possibility of any supervision.' The French, he tells us, had an ordinance as early as the year 1584, requiring the master to be examined touching his experience, fitness, and capacity. But in England the indifference on this subject was more apparent than real; it arose, we believe, out of the dislike of interference with personal concerns and private enterprise which is so strongly marked in our national character, nor must we forget that some of the most glorious achievements in our nautical annals have been accomplished by men not strictly trained to the sea, and this fact, no doubt, contributed to the reluctance manifested by the Legislature to apply the principles of paternal government to the protection of our seamen; for the going and coming of hundreds of thousands over the ocean for the purposes of business or pleasure had then but lately commenced; and, moreover, probably it was feared that too much care for the welfare of our seamen would have the effect of diminishing the hardihood, self-reliance, and daring which had up to that time made them the envy of the world.

"In 1854 the Merchant Shipping Act was passed, repealing the Act of 1850. Under its provisions the Board of Trade received its present extensive authority over merchant ships and seamen, Local Marine Boards were constituted for the examination of masters and mates of foreign-going and home passenger ships, Mercantile Marine officers established for the registration of seamen, and Naval Courts for the investigation of complaints against masters, and other matters. Without doubt the result of this system of compulsory examination has been beneficial, and the master may also possess those other qualifications which cannot be subjected to examination. But it is not enough now-a-days that he should be honest, skilful, courageous, and firm; he must also, if he would steer clear of rocks other than those marked on the chart, be something of a lawyer. This, it might seem, would apply equally to all men having the conduct of important interests, and coming into contact with large numbers of men, but to no one else is so large a discretionary power granted, and the very fact that his use of it is not very severely scrutinised, only adds to the caution with which it should be exercised. And then there are many incongruities in his position. He may have a share in a ship, and yet he is but the agent of the other owners; though, if he has no share, and in a case of necessity hypothecate the ship, he also binds himself in a penalty to repay the sum borrowed. We can make no charge of redundancy or omission against our author; but if we were called upon to select any one out of the fifteen parts into which the two volumes are divided as being especially valuable, we should not hesitate to choose that numbered three, and entitled 'The Voyage.' There the master will find a succinct and compendious statement of the law respecting his duties, general and particular, with regard to the ship and its freight from the moment when, on taking command, he is bound to look to the seaworthiness of the ship, and to the delivery of her log at the final port of destination. In Part IV. his duties are considered with respect to the cargo, this being a distinct side of his duplicate character, inasmuch as he is agent of the owner of the cargo just as much as the owner of the ship.

"Next in order of position come 'Bills of Lading' and 'Stoppage in Transitu.' We confess that on first perusal we were somewhat surprised to find the subject of the delivery of goods by the master given priority over that of bills of lading; the logical sequence, however, of these matters was evidently sacrificed, and we think with advantage to the author's desire for unity in his above-mentioned chapters on 'The Voyage.' That this is so is evidenced by the fact that after his seventh chapter on the latter subject he has left a blank chapter with the heading of the former and a reference ante. 'The power of the master to bind the owner by his personal contracts,' 'Hypothecation,' and 'The Crew,' form the remainder of the contents of the first volume, of which we should be glad to have made more mention, but it is obviously impossible to criticize in detail a work in which the bare list of cited cases occupies forty-four pages.

THE LAW RELATING TO SHIPMASTERS AND SEAMEN.

"The question of compulsory pilotage is full of difficulties, which are well summed up by Mr. Kay in his note to page 763:—"In the United States no ship is bound to take on board a pilot either going in or coming out of the harbour, but if a pilot offers and is ready, the ship must pay pilotage fees whether he is taken on board or not." Ships do not exist for pilots, but pilots for ships, so that this option in the use of the pilot, and obligation in the matter of fees, appears to us to be exactly that solution of the difficulty which should not have been arrived at; and, moreover, it is open to the first objection urged by Mr. Kay against the compulsory system of pilotage, which is, that it obliges many ships which do not require pilots to pay for keeping up a staff for those who do. Seven other cogent reasons, for which we must refer the reader to the book itself, though most of them, indeed, will instantly present themselves to the minds of sailors without even an effort of memory, are noted. Section 338 of the Merchant Shipping Act provides that no owner or master of any ship shall be answerable to any person whatever for any loss or damage occasioned by the fault or incapacity of any qualified pilot acting in charge of such ship within any district where the employment of a pilot is compulsory by law. If he interferes to correct the pilot in the handling of a ship, with the peculiarities of which the latter cannot generally be acquainted, he may render himself and the owners liable in case of accident, and so a premium is offered to his indifference, proof being always required that the damage was occasioned solely by the pilot's neglect or fault, to entitle the owners to the benefit of this section. The decision in the case of the General de Caen well illustrates some of the difficulties surrounding the subject. She was a French ship upon the Thames, where the employment of a pilot is compulsory, and she, therefore, took on board a pilot as well as a waterman to take the wheel in consequence of none of the crew being able to understand English. The waterman put her helm up instead of luffing as the pilot ordered, whereby a barge was run into and damaged. The French owner claimed under Section 389 of 17 and 18 Vic., c. 104. It was held that the pilot was not answerable for the waterman's incapacity or fault; that the pilot gave the proper orders; that it would be contrary to justice to say that the pilot was solely liable for the collision; that the waterman was the servant of the owners, and that they, therefore, were liable. The real question at issue seems to have been whether the English pilot ought to have spoken French or the French ship to have had on board a helmsman who could understand English, and the corollary, when the decision had been given in favour of the former, that the Government officer, when engaging the helmsman, was acting merely as the agent of the French owners.

"The master has a large authority over the passengers on board his ship, equal in cases of great emergency to that which he possesses over the crew. Lord Ellenborough has decided—it will comfort intending travellers by sea to hear, especially if this country should again become involved in a war with a nation which, unlike Ashanti and Abyssinia, possesses a navy—that a master exceeded the limits of his authority in placing a passenger who refused to fight on the poop, though willing to do so elsewhere, in irons all night on that particular part of the ship to which he had objected.

"It is for the interest and security of commerce and navigation that it should be generally known that the amount of service rendered is not the only or proper test by which the amount of salvage reward is estimated, but the Court will grant to successful salvage an amount which much exceeds a mere remuneration for work and labour in order that the salvors should be encouraged to run the risk of such enterprises and go promptly to the succour of lives or vessels in distress, though they must take care that they do not by their subsequent conduct forfeit their claims to such reward.

"That it should be necessary to entice men by money to save the lives of their fellow-creatures is not a matter for congratulation; still it was no doubt to some extent anomalous that formerly, whilst large proportionate sums were paid for the recovery of property, for the rescuing of human life unless associated with property, no salvage reward could be recovered. But by Section 458 of the Merchant Shipping Act the preservation of human life is made a distinct ground of salvage reward, with priority over all other claims for salvage where the property is insufficient, and if the value of the property is not adequate to the payment of the claim for life-salvage alone, the Board of Trade is empowered to award to the salvors such sum as it deems fit, either in part or whole satisfaction.

"There is, perhaps, no species of service liable to a greater variety of circumstances under which it can be performed than salvage. Consequently we cannot be surprised that questions of this kind frequently come before the Courts, and that the number of decided cases is very large; but Mr. Kay has succeeded in an admirable way in extracting the main points connected with each case, and in presenting them in as few words as possible. Of course fuller information may sometimes be required, but the reader will then know where to find it.

"In conclusion, we can heartily congratulate Mr. Kay upon his success. His work everywhere bears traces of a solicitude to avoid anything like an obtrusive display of his own powers at the expense of the solid matter pertaining to the subject, whilst those observations which he permits himself to make are always of importance and to the point; and in face of the legislation which must soon take place, whether beneficially or otherwise, we think his book, looking at it in other than a professional light, could scarcely have made its appearance at a more opportune moment."

THE LAW RELATING TO SHIPMASTERS AND SEAMEN.

From the LIVERPOOL JOURNAL OF COMMERCE.

"The Law relating to Shipmasters and Seamen—such is the title of a voluminous and important work which has just been issued by Messrs. Stevens and Haynes, the eminent law publishers, of London. The author is Mr. Joseph Kay, Q.C., and while treating generally of the law relating to shipmasters and seamen, he refers more particularly to their appointment, duties, rights, liabilities, and remedies. It consists of two large volumes, the text occupying nearly twelve hundred pages, and the value of the work being enhanced by copious appendices and index, and by the quotation of a mass of authorities. . . . In a short note of dedication Mr. Kay observes that he had been engaged on it for the last ten years. The result of this assiduity and care has been the production of a standard work on the subject to which it relates. . . . As to the value of the work itself, it can hardly be properly treated of in limited space. It is divided into fifteen parts which have reference to the public authorities having control in shipping matters, the appointment, certificates, &c., of the master, his duties on the voyage, his duties and powers with respect to the cargo, bills of lading, stoppage in transitu, personal contracts binding the shipowner, hypothecation, the crew, pilots, passengers, collisions, salvage, the master's remedies and his liabilities. From this range of topics it will be seen that the work must be an invaluable one to the shipowner, shipmaster, or consul at a foreign port. The language is clear and simple, while the legal standing of the author is a sufficient guarantee that he writes with the requisite authority, and that the cases quoted by him are decisive as regards the points on which he touches. The work is excellently 'got up,' and its appearance is quite consistent with its standard character as a treatise on the law relating to shipmasters and seamen."

From the BOSTON (U. S.) JOURNAL OF COMMERCE.

"Of volumes with such a magnitude of pages, filled with abstruse matter, made plain and clear, we have only room to give the heads of the Analysis of Contents, without alluding to the various branches. They are laid out in fifteen parts, viz.: The Public Authorities; Appointment, Certificates, &c. of the Master; the Voyage; Master's Duties and Powers with respect to Cargo; Bills of Lading; Stoppage in Transitu; When the Master may bind the Shipowner by his Personal Contract; Hypothecation; the Crew; Pilots; Passengers; Collisions; Salvage; the Master's Remedies and his Liabilities. Then follow the appendices, thirty-four in number, which contain a great deal of maritime law information, as also the 'Index to Cases,' and here the immense labour of the compiler is seen in its fullest and most distinct sense. The index of cases decided in Courts of Final Appeal, relating to maritime disputes, enumerated in lines alphabetically, makes forty-two long pages. These are necessarily brief in abstract, but they are really of interest to all shippers and consignees, to masters, owners, and seamen, to underwriters, and to the assured. It would seem hardly possible that so much valuable and really interesting information could be thrown into so confined a space.

"In the abstracts of law cases the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States are referred to very frequently, as precedents in maritime law, and we note, under the head of 'The Master's Duties to the Passengers, irrespective of the statutes,' that the decisions of our courts are oftentimes mentioned."

From the LAW JOURNAL.

"The author tells us that for ten years he has been engaged upon it. . . . Two large volumes containing 1181 pages of text, 81 pages of appendices, 98 pages of index, and upwards of 1800 cited cases, attest the magnitude of the work designed and accomplished by Mr. Kay.

"The total merchant shipping of the United Kingdom consisted in 1873 of 21,581 vessels of 5,748,097 tons, manned by 202,239 seamen; and the total merchant shipping of the whole British Empire consisted of 36,825 vessels of 7,294,230 tons, manned by 330,849 seamen. Mr. Kay justly observes upon these figures: 'For such a vast mercantile fleet, one would have thought that every thing would have been done to render the law affecting such a vital part of our Imperial Empire as clear, as simple, and as easily to be inquired into and understood, as was possible.' Unfortunately, everyone knows that the exact contrary is the case, and that, confused as is the condition of almost every department of English jurisprudence, no one department is in a more hopeless and chaotic state than that which embraces the merchant-shipping laws and regulations. Mr. Kay tells us that these laws are to be discovered by researches into 'thirty-five statutes, seventeen orders in council, great numbers of instructions of the Board of Trade; great numbers of bye-laws and regulations of the Trinity House and of the different ports; and great numbers of cases decided on numberless points in the various courts.' Now, in default of a code setting forth in a clear and comprehensive manner the law contained in this rudis indigestaque moles, and until such a code is formed, the only anchor of salvation to mariners and lawyers alike is some one or more treatises on which reliance can be placed. Mr. Kay says that he has 'endeavoured to compile a guide and reference book for masters, ship agents, and consuls.' He has been so modest as not to add lawyers to the list of his pupils; but his work will, we think, be welcomed by lawyers who have to do with shipping transactions, almost as cordially as it undoubtedly will be by those who occupy their business in the great waters.

THE LAW RELATING TO SHIPMASTERS AND SEAMEN.

"We must not be understood as intimating that all and every part of this work has a legal interest. Much of it concerns only the practical life of the master and crew. But there are many chapters to which members of both branches of the profession, and especially solicitors residing at the great ports, will turn with gratitude to the author in moments of difficulty. For example, Part IV. is on the master's duties and powers with respect to the cargo, and deals with hypothecation, freight, lien, and delivery. Part V. contains an exhaustive treatise on bills of lading, with special reference to the effect of the transfer of the bill of lading upon the property named in the bill. Part VI. explains fully the right of stoppage in transitu, and Part VII. teaches when the master may bind the shipowner by the master's personal acts. So again Part XIII. deals with the principles of salvage, and the nature and reward of salvage services. The great bulk of the book, however, is devoted to the consideration of the rights, duties, and obligations of the master and of the crew. After explaining the powers and prerogatives of the several public authorities to whose control mariners are subject, the author proceeds to the appointment, certificates, &c. of the master, his general duties and authorities on the voyage towards the shipowner, the charterer, the underwriter, and the harbour master. Next are considered the duties and powers of the master with respect to the cargo, his power to bind the shipowner by contracts either for necessary supplies or for absolute sale of the ship, and his power of hypothecation. Having so considered the position of the master, the author next deals with the crew, their engagement, wages, legal rights to wages, and modes of recovery; their discipline, and the legislation for their protection in life, limb, and pocket. Pilots and pilotage are then considered at great length; and then we have a survey of the rights and liabilities of passengers, and the statutable provisions for their protection. Collisions, salvage, the master's personal remedies and liabilities, complete the list of subjects. The appendices contain an immense variety of forms, tables, scales, &c., embracing fees, medicines, boats, protests, bottomry, and respondentia bonds, orders in council, instructions to emigration officers, lights, bye-laws as to pilots, remuneration of receivers, and other matters and things too numerous for detail.

"The volumes are well printed, with wide margins, and present a smart appearance both in cover and page; and, while they will find their way to the cabins of the masters of all big passenger steamers and merchantmen, they will, we believe, also adorn the shelves of many lawyers."

From the MANCHESTER EXAMINER.

"In a brief notice no idea could be given of the importance, or even the extent, of the details referred to in Mr. Kay's book, and a catalogue of the contents would constitute a small pamphlet. There are also in the course of the treatise interesting historical references, and the duties and responsibilities of passengers are not overlooked. Speaking generally of the law of shipping, as defined and described in the book before us, we may say that the seaman has a Magna Charta of his own. The rights of the owner, of the ship's officers, and of the sailors are all clearly recognised on the statute book, and the penalty for the infringement is in every case specified. We read of the precautions for the safety of life and property exacted by the authorities, and of the conditions which must be fulfilled before a vessel is pronounced seaworthy; yet we learn with amazement that before 1850 no proper precautions were taken in England to protect the public from the appointment of ignorant and untrustworthy men as masters of ships. In illustration of the various branches of his subject Mr. Kay refers to more than a thousand cases. The appendices also contain a considerable amount of valuable information, and the index is so complete that it indirectly serves the additional purpose of a glossary. In his preface Mr. Kay modestly hopes that his book 'may prove to be a useful book of reference for intelligent masters and for ship agents and consuls in foreign ports on matters relating to shipmasters and seamen.' That it will prove useful to them we have no doubt whatever, and that it will be gratefully accepted as a boon by many others we are equally sure. Directly or indirectly, it cannot but prove an important work of reference to all who are engaged in the shipping trade, and Mr. Kay deserves the thanks of the commercial as well as of the shipping community for having so successfully carried out his arduous task."

AN ESSAY

ON

THE RIGHTS OF THE CROWN

AND THE

PRIVILEGES OF THE SUBJECT

In the Sea Shores of the Realm.

By ROBERT GREAM HALL, of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law. Second Edition. Revised and corrected, together with extensive Annotations, and references to the later Authorities in England, Scotland, Ireland, and the United States. By RICHARD LOVELAND LOVELAND, of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

"This is an interesting and valuable book. It treats of one of those obscure branches of the law which there is no great inducement for a legal writer to take up. Questions of foreshore, when they arise, are sure to have a great deal of law in them; but they are few and far between, and Mr. Loveland can scarcely expect his book to obtain the demand it deserves in this country, although we hope that the well-known pendant of American lawyers for subjects with a flavour of legal antiquity will give the publishers a market on the other side of the Atlantic. Mr. Hall, whose first edition was issued in 1830, was a writer of considerable power and method. Mr. Loveland's editing reflects the valuable qualities of the 'Essay' itself. He has done his work without pretension, but in a solid and efficient manner. The 'Summary of Contents' gives an admirable epitome of the chief points discussed in the 'Essay,' and indeed, in some twenty propositions, supplies a useful outline of the whole law. Recent cases are noted at the foot of each page with great care and accuracy, while an Appendix contains much valuable matter; including Lord Hale's treatise De Jure Maris, about which there has been so much controversy, and Serjeant Merewether's learned argument on the rights in the river Thames. The book will, we think, take its place as the modern authority on the subject."—Law Journal.

"The essay of which this is a reproduction was first published in 1830, and Mr. Loveland has simply supplied annotations and appended Lord Chief Justice Hale's 'De Jure Maris,' the case of Dickens v. Shaw, the speech of Serjeant Merewether in the case of the Attorney-General v. The Mayor and Corporation of London, and forms in use by the Board of Trade. Thus we have a very useful compendium upon a branch of law which for a long time has been and still is in a very unsettled state.

"The treatise, as originally published, was one of considerable value, and has ever since been quoted as a standard authority. But as time passed, and cases accumulated, its value diminished, as it was necessary to supplement it so largely by reference to cases since decided. A tempting opportunity was, therefore, offered to an intelligent editor to supply this defect in the work, and Mr. Loveland has seized it, and proved his capacity in a very marked manner. As very good specimens of annotation, showing clear judgment in selection, we may refer to the subject of alluvion at page 109, and the rights of fishery at page 50. At the latter place he begins his notes by stating under what expressions a 'several fishery' has been held to pass, proceeding subsequently to the evidence which is sufficient to support a claim to ownership of a fishery. The important question under what circumstances property can be acquired in the soil between high and low water mark is lucidly discussed at page 77, whilst at page 81 we find a pregnant note on the property of a grantee of wreck in goods stranded within his liberty.

"We think we can promise Mr. Loveland the reward for which alone he says he looks—that this edition of Hall's Essay will prove a most decided assistance to those engaged in cases relating to the foreshores of the country."—Law Times.

A TREATISE ON THE LAW OF DAMAGES.

COMPRISING THEIR MEASURE,

THE MODE IN WHICH THEY ARE ASSESSED AND REVIEWED,

The Practice of Granting New Trials, and the Law of Set-off.

By JOHN D. MAYNE,

Of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

SECOND EDITION,

By LUMLEY SMITH, of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

"Few modern text-books have a higher authority than Mayne on Damages. An argument is seldom heard in the courts upon a question of the measure of damages without the work being referred to; and there are several points upon which there was, at the date of the first edition (1856), either an absence or a conflict of authority, and upon which the views advanced by the author have since been held to be law by the courts. . . . It is fortunate for the reputation of the work that so good an editor has been found for it as Mr. Lumley Smith. The additions to the text of the former edition are distinguished by brackets. Mr. Lumley Smith's work has been well done, and the new cases are skillfully incorporated. . . . Probably there is no other one subject upon which the cases reported as well as unreported so frequently present the same difficulty of extracting from complicated statements of fact, special in their character and not likely to occur again, the legal principles involved in the decision, so as to be available for guidance in other cases. It is exactly this difficulty which makes the subject one upon which a good text-book such as the present is peculiarly valuable."—Solicitors' Journal.

"We are glad that this useful work fell into the hands of so capable an editor as Mr. Lumley Smith. It is always a great advantage gained when an editor has had practical experience of the subject with which he deals, and it is a positive gain to the law when busy lawyers can find time to do well the work which is so apt to fall into the hands of those who have little learning and less practice. The law relating to damages is a branch of our jurisprudence peculiarly practical in its nature and highly important to suitors and the profession; it is, moreover, surrounded by difficulties which require a clear explanation before they become intelligible to the ordinary mind. . . .

"The concluding chapter (c. 19) is very important, and we should like to make copious extracts from it. It deals with the 'powers of the court or judge in regard to damages.' We recommend it to the attention of our readers, as indeed we do the entire work, which is excellently executed, with an entire freedom from verbosity, and a good index."—Law Times.

"In the year 1856 Mr. John D. Mayne, a gentleman of the bar, now enjoying a very extensive practice in the Indian Empire, published a treatise on the Law of Damages. Mr. Mayne conferred a great boon on the profession by his labours, and for sixteen years his book has been regarded with high respect in Westminster Hall. In the ordinary course of things such a lapse of time, from the natural accretion of precedents, would have created a demand for a new edition, but in the particular department of law investigated by Mr. Mayne there has been an extraordinary development of principles, exhibited in numerous cases, upon which the judges have expended a large amount of time, industry, and learning. Consequently, the publication of a new edition is not premature. On the contrary, it was high time that the profession should be supplied with a treatise condensing and arranging the matter brought into existence by the contested cases of that period. It is perfectly intelligible that Mr. Mayne's absence from England and the toil of his professional career have prevented him from undertaking this duty himself. But the performance of it has fallen on a deputy, whose success in the discharge thereof might fairly have been anticipated, and who in the result has, we think, not disappointed the reasonable expectations formed concerning him.

"Mr. Lumley Smith has evidently been actuated by a modest desire not to despoil the original author of well-earned fame. He has, as far as possible, retained the primary form of the book, and has distinguished what Mr. Mayne wrote from what he himself has written, by enclosing all the later matter in brackets, adding a brief separate chapter on the assessment of damages in the Court of Chancery under Lord Cairns's Act, 21 & 22 Vict. c. 27. He has also cited many Scotch and Irish cases, and the leading American decisions of recent date.

"One word with regard to the book itself will not be out of place. It is well printed, in an excellent form, and of a convenient size—no small considerations in a text-book, which, from the nature of its contents, is useful rather for reference than for study. Good looks in a book set off its intrinsic merits, just as an imposing appearance adds to the dignity and influence of a judge."—Law Journal.

"It will probably be a very long time before the prosecution of the Overend and Gurney directors is forgotten. It remains as an example, and a legal precedent of considerable value. It involved the immensely important question where innocent misrepresentation ends, and where fraudulent misrepresentation begins.

"All who perused the report of this case in the columns of the Times, must have observed the remarkable fulness and accuracy with which that duty was discharged, and nothing could be more natural than that the reporter should publish a separate report in book form. This has been done, and Mr. Finlason introduces the report by one hundred pages of dissertation on the general law. ## SOME RARE LAW BOOKS.

[From "THE ALBANY LAW JOURNAL."]

"Law books are not generally things of beauty. There is nothing particularly gratifying to the esthetic department of the human organism in the conventional typography and sheep-skin. Some of our publishers give considerable attention to the mechanical execution of their books, and deserve and receive a good degree of credit therefor. But, after all, their labours seldom please the eye. In most marked contrast to even the very best of our books, are a series of law books that have been recently issued by Messrs. STEVENS & HAYNES, of London. They are reprints of some of the scarcest of the Old English Reports, and in their mechanical execution would delight the heart of Aldus Manutius, Thuanus, or any other admirer of elegant editions. The black letter type of the originals is faithfully reproduced, the curious old-style spelling and interchange of letters have been closely followed, while the rich antique calf covers are, no doubt, superior to anything that served to encase the original Reports. These editions have been carefully prepared, and some of the volumes have been enriched with notes added in MS. to some copy of the original by its learned owner generations ago.

"This enterprise of Messrs. STEVENS & HAYNES is a matter of universal interest, and appeals to every lover of elegant books. The works which they have reproduced are those which were the scarcest, and for copies of which the most exorbitant prices were demanded. The following is a brief description of the matter of these volumes."

"No public library in the world, where English law finds a place, should be without a copy of this edition of Bellewe."—Canada Law Journal.

"We have here a fac-simile edition of Bellewe, and it is really the most beautiful and admirable reprint that has appeared at any time. It is a perfect gem of antique printing, and forms a most interesting monument of our early legal history. It belongs to the same class of works as the Year Book of Edward I. and other similar works which have been printed in our own time under the auspices of the Master of the Rolls; but is far superior to any of them, and is in this respect highly creditable to the spirit and enterprise of private publishers. The work is an important link in our legal history; there are no year books of the reign of Richard II., and Bellewe supplied the only substitute by carefully extracting and collecting all the cases he could find, and he did it in the most convenient form—that of alphabetical arrangement in the order of subjects, so that the work is a digest as well as a book of law reports. It is in fact a collection of cases of the reign of Richard II., arranged according to their subjects in alphabetical order. It is, therefore, one of the most intelligible and interesting legal memorials of the Middle Ages."—Law Times.

"The instructive chapter which precedes the cases, entitled 'A proposal for rendering the Laws of England clear and certain,' gives the volume a degree of peculiar interest, independent of the value of many of the reported cases. That chapter begins with words which ought, for the information of every people, to be printed in letters of gold. They are as follows: 'Nothing conduces more to the peace and prosperity of every nation than good laws and the due execution of them.' The history of the civil law is then rapidly traced. Next a history is given of English Reporters, beginning with the reporters of the Year Books from 1 Edw. III. to 12 Hen. VIII.—being near 200 years—and afterwards to the time of the author."—Canada Law Journal.

"We cannot close this review of Mr. Copinger's publication better than with the apt quotation with which he inaugurates it: 'Knowledge is of two kinds; we know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information upon it.'

"Mr. Copinger has not only designed an Index which cannot fail to be of practical use, but has successfully elaborated the work designed by combining a perspicuous order of arrangement with a most exhaustive table of contents, and most copious references to precedents. ## THE LAW OF NEGLIGENCE,

Illustrated by the Recent Decisions of the Courts of the United Kingdom and America. By ROBERT CAMPBELL, Advocate of the Scotch Bar, and of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law.

In this Essay, the Author reviews old principles in the light of recent decisions; combining the point of view of the practitioner—noting the latest phase of judicial opinion; with the attempt to digest and harmonize the law, so that (if possible) new decisions may seem to illustrate old and familiar principles, or that the extent and direction of the change introduced by each decision may be correctly estimated.

"I would also refer to some ingenious remarks as to the misapplication of the term 'gross negligence,' which are to be found in a very good book—Campbell's Law of Negligence."—Mr. Justice Willes in the case of "Oppenheim v. White Lion Hotel Co."

"We presume from this being styled the first of a series of practical Law Tracts, that Mr. Campbell is about to devote his attention to other subjects, which, from the success of his first attempt, we shall expect to see him elucidate considerably. If, however, he should ever find time to expand this tract on the Law of Negligence into a complete treatise, we shall expect to find it one of the most satisfactory text-books on English law."—Solicitors' Journal.

THE AMERICAN REPORTS.

CONTAINING ALL CASES OF GENERAL VALUE,

DECIDED BY THE COURT OF LAST RESORT IN EVERY STATE IN THE UNION.

The Reports of the Courts of Last Resort of the several States contain cases of great general importance, and which are always considered as high authority by the Courts of the other States, but they are buried beneath a mass of practice and local cases of no value outside of the States in which they are decided.

In "The American Reports" the plan is to give all cases having a general value, hereafter decided by the Court of Last Resort in every State, unencumbered by Practice Cases and those of local importance only.

AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONS:

Comprising the Constitution of each State in the Union, and of the United States, with the Declaration of Independence and Articles of Confederation; each accompanied by a Historical Introduction and Notes, together with a Classified Analysis of the Constitutions, according to their subjects, showing, by comparative arrangement, every Constitutional Provision now in force in the several States; with References to Judicial Decisions, and an Analytical Index. Illustrated by carefully engraved fac-similes of the Great Seals of the United States, and of each State and Territory. By FRANKLIN B. HOUGH. In two vols., price 70*s*., bound. 1872.

THE AMERICAN LAW REVIEW.

A Quarterly Journal of American Jurisprudence, &c. Price 6*s*. each number.

The principal features of this Review are treatises upon practical or theoretical points of law, reports of leading cases, regular digests of the current series of English Reports and of the principal American cases from the courts of all the States, brief critical notices of new law-books, and in each number a "Summary of Events," where notes of decisions, legal intelligence, and professional gossip are grouped under local headings.

MANUAL OF THE LAWS AND COURTS OF THE UNITED STATES,

AND OF THE SEVERAL STATES AND TERRITORIES.

By HORACE ANDREWS, of the New York Bar.

This book is a complete summary in convenient form of the Jurisdiction of all the Courts, and of the Laws of the United States and all the other States and Territories, for the use of Lawyers, Notaries, Commissioners, Collecting Agents and business men.

From THE TIMES.

"Among recent publications has been a 'Manual of the Laws and Courts of the United States,' and of the several States and Territories, with a Dictionary of reliable practising lawyers, edited by Mr. Horace Andrews, A.M., of the New York Bar. The business relations of the two countries are extending with such rapidity as to render a work of the kind indispensable for use on this side, and the task seems to have been carefully performed by Mr. Andrews. It will not only serve to prevent contracts being entered into in ignorance of peculiar local statutes, but in many questions that may arise will save the delay and expense that would be caused by the necessity for correspondence; while to intending settlers also it will be a guide with regard to exemption and homestead laws, rates of interest, rights of married women, taxation, and other points bearing on their future course."

"The work, we are told in the Preface, is designed for lawyers and business men. The object appears to be to give a plain statement of the law, practice, and procedure of the courts, without the citation of authority, so as to be a guide to nonprofessional persons. It must prove a most useful epitome, for it contains a great amount of varied information."—Law Times.

FIRE INSURANCE CASES.

Being a Collection of all the Reported Cases on Fire Insurance in England, Ireland, Scotland, and America, from the earliest period to the present time, Chronologically arranged. With Notes and References. By EDMUND H. BENNETT. Vol. I., covering the period from 1729 to 1839; Vol. II., from 1840 to 1849. Vol. III., from 1849 to 1854. Three vols., royal 8vo. 1872-4. Price 5*l.* 10*s.*, law calf.

It is proposed to issue a collection of all the cases on Fire Insurance from the earliest period to the present time, chronologically arranged, with notes and references, by Hon. EDMUND H. BENNETT, of the Boston Bar. The Series will embrace all the reported cases in England, Ireland, Scotland, and America, including Canada and the British Provinces. The opinions of the Court will always be given in full, but the arguments of Counsel and the reporter's statement will be sometimes condensed. New head-notes will also be frequently introduced, and foot-notes and references to other Cases added. The Court by which the Case was determined, and the volume and page where originally reported, will distinctly appear. A Table of Cases, both of those reported and of those only cited, with a full Index, will be found in each volume.

The volumes to complete the Work, and bringing the Cases to the present time, will be published at an early period.

BIGELOW'S INDEX OF OVERRULED CASES.

The attempt has been made in this Volume to collect all the reported cases from the earliest period to the present time which have been

REVISED, OVERRULED, DENIED, DOUBTED, OR MODIFIED,

With such of the cases explained or distinguished as were deemed important; and, for the accomplishment of this purpose, all the Reports of the English, Irish, and American Courts have been examined, and for the most part page by page. The number of cases amounts to twenty thousand.

LIFE AND ACCIDENT INSURANCE REPORTS.

Vol. I.—Containing Reports of all the published Life and Accident Insurance Cases determined in the American Courts prior to January, 1871. With Notes to English Cases. Vol. II.—Containing all the Cases adjudicated on in the American and English Courts since the publication of Vol. I.; together with the prior leading English Life and Accident Insurance Cases. Vols. III. and IV. embrace the cases decided since January 1872, and also all the Scotch and Canadian cases of general interest, and such of the English and Irish cases as were not published in the second volume. The Scotch cases are as valuable as they are inaccessible to the Profession generally. By MELVILLE M. BIGELOW, of the Boston Bar. Four vols., royal 8vo. 1871-4. Price 7*l.* 10*s.*, law calf.

The subject of Life and Accident Insurance has within a few years sprung into such absorbing interest in the Courts, that it has been thought that a collection of the Cases upon this branch of the law would prove acceptable.

These Cases decide interesting and important questions concerning Suicide, Insurable Interest, Restrictions upon Residence and Travel, Receipt of Premium after Forfeiture, Death in Known Violation of Law, &c.

A TREATISE on EXTRAORDINARY LEGAL REMEDIES.

Embracing MANDAMUS, QUO WARRANTO and PROHIBITION. By JAMES L. HIGH, of the Chicago Bar.

"Mr. High is quite right when he says that no single treatise covers the ground which he now occupies, 'no previous writer having ever attempted a treatise upon either of the subjects here embraced, which should be founded upon and include the result of all the English and American decisions.' On this score the book is welcome, and we think that American jurisprudence has attained to such excellence, and has been built up by men of vast learning, whose successors have proved most worthy, that it is impossible to write a text-book on a branch of law common to both countries without citing the legal decisions in both countries. Another merit in Mr. High's work is that, 'following the inductive method, he has endeavoured to group and generalise the results of his investigations, so as to ascertain the governing principles underlying all the decisions, and to state these in the text with as much brevity as seemed consistent with clearness.' As the work of an American, the treatise under notice is one of the best which we have met with."—Law Times.

By Hon. JAMES KENT. Edited and Revised by O. W. HOLMES, Junr. 12th Edition. 4 vols. royal 8vo. 1873. 5*l.* cloth.

In the present edition of this work an attempt has been made to bring it down through the quarter of a century which has elapsed since the author's death.

The great weight attaching to any opinion of Chancellor Kent has been deemed a sufficient reason for not attempting any alteration in his text or notes. To insure accuracy, this edition has been printed from the eleventh, and then carefully read with the sixth, which contained the author's last corrections. The original text has been scrupulously restored, except that, whenever a difference between the proofs and the sixth edition has occurred in a citation, it has been corrected in the proper abbreviated form. In this way a large proportion of the author's citations have been verified; and it is believed that the present revision, together with the care which former editors have bestowed, has insured their accuracy.

"We have said that these books were mainly intended to be useful to students; but if there are any practising lawyers who still have the time and taste to 'read law,' we can promise them that they will find no legal study more delightful than that of tracing the history of opinion through the pages of these books. . . . By WILLIAM HENRY RAWLE. Fourth Edition, revised and enlarged.

In the preparation of this edition every line has been carefully considered, and every authority consulted. Much of it has been written over,—in particular, the introduction, the chapter on "the usual covenants," on the covenant against encumbrances, on covenants running with the land, and as to their operation by way of estoppel or rebutter. The subject of the measure of damages has been considered separately, and a new chapter has been added,—"The jurisdiction of equity as to covenants for title." It is believed that the treatise now correctly represents the present state of the law in England and in America.

Seventh and Revised Edition. Three vols., royal 8vo. 1874.

Vol. I. PRINCIPLES, PLEADING, and EVIDENCE. Vol. II. CRIMES. Vol. III. PRACTICE.
Price £5, cloth.

A TREATISE ON THE CRIMINAL LAW OF THE UNITED STATES. By FRANCIS WHARTON, LL.D., Author of "Conflict of Laws," "Precedents of Indictments and Pleas," "Medical Jurisprudence," "Law of Homicides," &c.

The third volume of this edition is substantially new, and comprehends an independent treatise on Criminal Practice. The chapters on Crimes, which in prior editions were spread over the second and third volumes, are now consolidated in the second. The whole work has been thoroughly revised and re-written, and upwards of six hundred pages of additional matter incorporated in the text. To enable this extension to be more readily mastered, the topics have been re-arranged, devoting the first volume to Principles, Pleading, and Evidence; the second to Crimes; and the third to Practice.

Recent investigations having shown that the chief maxims and definitions of the English Criminal Law have been largely derived from the Roman and Canon Law, has led to the introduction in this edition of a new feature—the references to the early jurists laying down and illustrating these maxims and definitions, as well as to such points in the dissertations of the more modern jurists as may be consulted with advantage. In making frequent references to these authorities there has been no relaxation of the vigilant scrutiny and careful analysis due to the adjudications of the Anglo-American Courts. So far from this being the case, there is not a citation in the former texts which has not for this edition been verified, and, as far as known, there is not a single intermediate reported English or American criminal decision that has not been scrutinized and introduced. Nor is this all. The student will see by comparison that the text has been so subdivided that each point is now presented in its own separate analytical place. That the labour thus applied is made only the more fruitful by the introduction of cognate foreign jurisprudences, will be conceded by all who will examine the sections devoted to Presumptions, to Casual Connection, to Estoppel by Consent, to Omissions, to Conflict of Jurisdictions, to Conspiracy, and to Attempts. The treatise now covers the whole field of Criminal Jurisprudence, and is commended with confidence to those engaged in the application of our criminal law, whether as practitioners or judges.

EDITED, WITH

Copious Explanatory Notes and References, and an Elaborate Index,

BY

ARTHUR JOHN FLAXMAN,

OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"The complete and correct registration of births and deaths is, for several reasons, a matter of great importance, and it can only be effected by a law that is very simple in its provisions. The work cannot be wholly done by officials, but persons of all classes have to give the needful information. We agree with Mr. Flaxman as to the utility and thoroughness of the Act of 1874, and, with a little zeal in the enforcement of its provisions, the returns of the Registrar-General will be an exact record. It is, perhaps, as lucid as we can expect an Act of Parliament to be; but still it needs a careful study and general knowledge of the pre-existing law to understand all the clauses. Now Mr. Flaxman's unpretentious but admirable little book makes the duties of all parties under the Act abundantly clear.

"Mr. Flaxman's plan is to print the Act clause by clause, and after each clause he puts his notes. The Act says, 'In the case of any child born alive, &c.:' and a note tells the reader that 'No still-born child can be registered as a birth or death. Persons who would have been required to give information concerning the birth, had such child been born alive, are responsible only for the proper disposal of the body.' This is very lucid; though, by the way, the note would have been more complete if the author had added that a still-born child cannot be buried without a medical certificate, or a declaration signed by a person who would have been required by the Act to give information concerning the birth if the child had been born alive. It is true that later on, under the burials clauses, the Act makes those provisions; but the substance of them would have made the note we have quoted complete. But it must not be supposed that Mr. Flaxman's book is carelessly written. On the contrary, there are copious notes which of themselves form a digest and exposition of the law, and it requires a very close scrutiny to detect a trifling and practically unimportant omission. Lawyers will find the book not only handy, but also instructive and suggestive. To registrars, and all persons engaged in the execution of the law, the book will be invaluable. The index occupies thirty-five pages, and is so full that information on a minute point can be obtained without trouble. It is an index that must have cost the author much thought and time. The statements of what is to be done, who may do it, and what must not be done, are so clear that it is well nigh impossible for any one who consults the book to err. Those who use 'Flaxman's Registration of Births and Deaths' will admit that our laudatory criticism is thoroughly merited."—Law Journal.

"Mr. Arthur John Flaxman, barrister-at-law, of the Middle Temple, has published a small work on 'The Law Concerning the Registration of Births and Deaths in England and Wales, and at Sea.' Mr. Flaxman has pursued the only possible plan, giving the statutes and references to cases. The remarkable feature is the index, which fills no less than 45 out of a total of 112 pages. The index alone would be extremely useful, and is worth the money asked for the work."—Law Times.

ITS RELATIONS TO THE

With Appendix of Statutes, Cases and Forms.

By J. R. GRIFFITH, B.A. OXON.,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW.

"Mr. Griffith, the editor of the present work (and he is also the editor of that excellent treatise, 'Snell's Principles of Equity') has, by his introduction and notes, given to the lawyer every necessary assistance in the interpretation of these statutes, which, from their somewhat revolutionary character, require to be carefully studied in order that their relation to the principles of the status of married women at Common Law and in Equity may be appreciated. All the cases decided under these Acts have been quoted and considered; while in the introduction there is a concise statement of the liability of the wife's separate estate to her general engagements."—Irish Law Times.

INTRODUCTION TO
THE STUDY OF INTERNATIONAL LAW,
DESIGNED AS AN AID IN TEACHING, AND IN HISTORICAL STUDIES.
By THEODORE D. WOOLSEY, late President of Yale College.

Fourth Edition, revised and enlarged.

"The fact that President Woolsey's treatise on International Law has already reached a fourth edition may be taken as evidence of the increasing attention now paid to the subject of which it treats by all who lay claim to a liberal education in the United States. Certainly the long controversy maintained with this country in regard to the recognition of Confederate belligerency and the depredations of the 'Alabama' and its sister cruisers proves that no people stands more in need of enlightenment on the subject. The first edition of President Woolsey's work appeared in 1860; the second, considerably enlarged, four years later; and the third, with further valuable additions, in 1871. The fourth edition which now appears likewise contains various additions. The work is intended for students rather than lawyers, the author having undertaken its preparation while lecturing on International Law and History at Yale College. To the original historical sketch of the subject, corrected and enlarged, Dr. Woolsey has added, in the form of a second appendix, a pretty full summary of the various treaties which form the landmarks of international jurisprudence, and in the notes newly introduced he has brought down the discussion to the present time."—Saturday Review.

AN EPITOME AND ANALYSIS OF SAVIGNY'S TREATISE ON OBLIGATIONS IN ROMAN LAW.

By ARCHIBALD BROWN, M.A. Edin. and Oxon. and B.C.L. Oxon., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

"Mr. Archibald Brown deserves the thanks of all interested in the science of law, whether as a study or a practice, for his edition of Herr von Savigny's great work on 'Obligations.' Mr. Brown has undertaken a double task—the translation of his author, and the analysis of his author's matter. That he has succeeded in reducing the bulk of the original will be seen at a glance; the French translation consisting of two volumes, with some five hundred pages apiece, as compared with Mr. Brown's thin volume of a hundred and fifty pages. At the same time the pith of Von Savigny's matter seems to be very successfully preserved, nothing which might be useful to the English reader being apparently omitted.

"The new edition of Savigny will, we hope, be extensively read and referred to by English lawyers. If it is not, it will not be the fault of the translator and epitomiser. Far less will it be the fault of Savigny himself, whose clear definitions and accurate tests are of great use to the legal practitioner."—Law Journal.

THE LAW OF EXTRADITION.

A TREATISE UPON
THE LAW OF EXTRADITION.

WITH THE

CONVENTIONS UPON THE SUBJECT EXISTING BETWEEN ENGLAND AND FOREIGN NATIONS,

AND

THE CASES DECIDED THEREON.

By EDWARD CLARKE,

OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW, AND LATE TANCRED STUDENT.

"Mr. Clarke's accurate and sensible book is the best authority to which the English reader can turn upon the subject of Extradition."—Saturday Review.

"The opinion we expressed of the merits of this work when it first appeared has been fully justified by the reputation it has gained. This new edition, embodying and explaining the recent legislation on extradition, is likely to sustain that reputation. . . . There are other points we had marked for comment, but we must content ourselves with heartily commending this new edition to the attention of the profession. It is seldom we come across a book possessing so much interest to the general reader and at the same time furnishing so useful a guide to the lawyer."—The Solicitors' Journal.

"The appearance of a second edition of this treatise does not surprise us. It is a useful book, well arranged and well written. A student who wants to learn the principles and practice of the law of extradition will be greatly helped by Mr. Clarke. Lawyers who have extradition business will find this volume an excellent book of reference. Magistrates who have to administer the extradition law will be greatly assisted by a careful perusal of 'Clarke upon Extradition.' This may be called a warm commendation, but those who have read the book will not say it is unmerited. We have so often to expose the false pretenders to legal authorship that it is a pleasure to meet with a volume that is the useful and unpretending result of honest work. Besides the Appendix, which contains the extradition conventions of this country since 1843, we have eight chapters. The first is 'Upon the Duty of Extradition;' the second on the 'Early Treaties and Cases;' the others on the law in the United States, Canada, England, and France, and the practice in those countries."—The Law Journal.

"One of the most interesting and valuable contributions to legal literature which it has been our province to notice for a long time, is 'Clarke's Treatise on the Law of Extradition.' . . . Mr. Clarke's work comprises chapters upon the Duty of Extradition; Early Treaties and Cases; History of the Law in the United States, in Canada, in England, in France, &c., with an Appendix containing the Conventions existing between England and Foreign Nations, and the Cases decided thereon. . . . The work is ably prepared throughout, and should form a part of the library of every lawyer interested in great Constitutional or International Questions."—Albany Law Journal.

THE TIMES of September 7, 1874, in a long article upon "Extradition Treaties," makes considerable use of this work, and writes of it as "Mr. Clarke's useful Work on Extradition."

Title Deeds:

THEIR CUSTODY, INSPECTION, AND PRODUCTION,

At Law, in Equity and in Matters of Conveyancing,

INCLUDING COVENANTS FOR THE PRODUCTION OF DEEDS AND ATTESTED COPIES;

With an Appendix of Precedents, the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874,

&c. &c. &c.

By WALTER ARTHUR COPINGER,

OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, BARRISTER-AT-LAW;

Author of "The Law of Copyright" and "Index to Precedents in Conveyancing."

"There is no subject on which a practical knowledge is more required than that of title deeds; and this volume supplies a want. Mr. Copinger has, in his well-written chapters, entered most fully and thoroughly into the special subject matter of his work, and has accordingly produced a book worthy of being used by every careful conveyancer who knows the importance of studying all questions of title."—THE LAW.

"In dealing with 'documentary evidence at law and in equity and in matters of conveyancing, including covenants for the production of deeds and attested copies,' Mr. Copinger has shown discrimination, for it is a branch of the general subject of evidence which is very susceptible of independent treatment. We are glad, therefore, to be able to approve both of the design and the manner in which it has been executed.

"The work opens with a chapter on the custody of title deeds (1) generally, (2) between trustees and cestuis que trust, (3) between mortgagee and mortgagor, and (4) miscellaneous. Chapters II. and III. treat of the production of title deeds at law and in equity. In Chapter IV. the author considers the custody and production of title deeds on a sale, (1) as relates more particularly to the vendor, and (2) as relates more particularly to the purchaser. Chapter V. treats of the non-production of title deeds; Chapter VI. of the purchaser's right to the title deeds; Chapter VII. of attested copies; whilst Chapter VIII., which will prove very useful to conveyancers, deals with covenants for the production of deeds. There is an elaborate appendix containing precedents.

"The literary execution of the work is good enough to invite quotation, but the volume is not large, and we content ourselves with recommending it to the profession."—Law Times.

"A really good treatise on this subject must be essential to the lawyer; and this is what we have here. Mr. Copinger has supplied a much-felt want by the compilation of this volume. We have not space to go into the details of the book; it appears well arranged, clearly written, and fully elaborated. With these few remarks we recommend this volume to our readers. It may be remarked that there is an appendix added, showing the nature of the evidence required in verification of abstracts, a list of the searches and inquiries which should be made on a purchase, and concluding with a selection of precedents of covenants for production of deeds."—Law Journal.

NOTICES OF THE WORK.

LAW TIMES.

"For the form of the work we have nothing but commendation. We may say we have here our ideal law book. It may be said to omit nothing which it ought to contain."

SOLICITORS' JOURNAL.

"This handsome volume aims at presenting a comprehensive magisterial handbook for the whole of England. The mode of arrangement seems to us excellent, and is well carried out."

"As to the care with which the work has been executed, a somewhat minute examination of three or four of the divisions enables us to speak on the whole favourably."

MORNING POST.

"Great pains have evidently been taken in every part of the work to ensure correctness; and this quality, together with that of its great comprehensiveness, can scarcely fail to render this guide to procedure before magisterial and police authorities eminently acceptable to the many classes of persons to whom full and accurate information on the subject it deals with is often of the utmost importance."

DAILY NEWS.

"The Magisterial and Police Guide, by Mr. Henry Greenwood and Mr. Temple Martin, is a model work in its conciseness, and, so far as we have been able to test it, in completeness and accuracy. It ought to be in the hands of all who, as magistrates or otherwise, have authority in matters of police."

LIVERPOOL MERCURY.

"Both to justices and practitioners desirous of obtaining a book of reference giving the present practice of the courts, this book will be found of great service—nay, almost invaluable."

SATURDAY REVIEW.

"Mr. Greenwood, stipendiary magistrate in the Staffordshire Potteries district, and Mr. Martin, of the Southwark Police Court, have produced a portly magisterial handbook applicable to the whole of England. It contains all the statute law relating to the procedure, jurisdiction, and duties of magistrates and police authorities, with notes and references to recent decisions, and appears to be put together, as might be expected from the professional experience of the authors, in a thorough and business-like manner."

MIDLAND COUNTIES HERALD.

"This work is eminently practical, and supplies a real want. It plainly and concisely states the law on all points upon which Magistrates are called upon to adjudicate, systematically arranged, so as to be easy of reference. It ought to find a place on every Justice's table, and we cannot but think that its usefulness will speedily ensure for it as large a sale as its merits deserve."
